Roosevelt Pleads for Draft; Debate Delays Vote

Speed Is Vital For Other Bills, President Says

Barkley Succeeds in Limiting Debate; Vote Expected Today.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt reiterated his desire for quick enactment of the peace-time draft bill today, but more hours of senate debate prevented action in that branch of congress. Administration leaders sat in thumb-twiddling helplessness, awaiting an opportunity to cut the speech-making with a series of votes that would lead to final passage.

Late in the evening, Democratic Leader Barkley finally succeeded in obtaining unanimous consent to a debate limitation which leaders of both sides believe will bring a final vote passing the legislation and sending it to the house tomorrow. Under its stipulations, no senator may speak more than once nor longer than 30 minutes on the bill, or for more than an aggregate of 15 minutes on any amendment or substitute.

The senate beat back a concentrated drive to strip the draft bill of its essential provision, rejecting an amendment which would have made conscription operative only in time of war or after a congressional declaration that the nation was in peril of war or of invasion. The roll call vote was 54 to 29. The proposal was advanced by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts. Senators George and Russell voted against the amendment.

Mr. Roosevelt, who once before called for quick enactment of the draft legislation, said at his press conference today that speed was necessary concerning it and other bills.

These he listed as the $5,008,000,000 appropriation bill for starting a two-ocean navy and equipping an army of 1,200,000, and the excess profits tax bill. Until the draft bill is passed, he said, without specifying further, it is impossible to proceed with numerous preparedness steps.

In the afternoon, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, had endeavored to speed action on the conscription bill by asking unanimous consent that speeches on amendment be limited to 15 minutes each, with the length of speeches on the bill itself left unrestricted.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri; Senator Johnson, Republican, California, and Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia, all against conscription, were on their feet at once clamoring for recognition.

"Is it the purpose of the senator to have a night session?" Clark asked Barkley.

"Yes," said the Democratic leader. "It is my plan to hold a night session—as far into the night as possible."

"Therefore, Mr. President," said Clark, "I object."

By The United Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt today inferentially placed on congress the responsibility for any delay in the nation's rearmament drive.

Personally entering the controversy precipitated by Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, who charged the preparedness campaign has "bogged down," Mr. Roosevelt said he and the two top men of the National Defense Commission—Production Director William S. Knudsen and Procurement Director Edward R. Stettinius Jr.—were agreed that the program was progressing as rapidly as possible in view of congressional delay in passing necessary legislation.

He cited figures to show that 10,015 airplanes now are actually on order for the army and navy. The nation's air force, he added, already is equal to that of Germany from the standpoint of operating efficiency.

The best criterion of progress, he said at a press conference, is that the best business brains the government has been able to get together seemed to be satisfied with progress of the program considering the status of essential legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt also rejected the charge of G. O. P. Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie that the defense drive has deviated sharply from lines proposed in the national industrial mobilization plan developed prior to the war.

Noting that the plan never has been made public, the President asked correspondents if they could offer any reason why it should be. He added that it must be recognized that we are living in the year 1940.

As evidence of other advances in the defense program, he reported that naval yards and establishments are making remarkable progress in their drive to reach full production.

Refugee Ship Near U. S. After Perilous Trip

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The army transport American Legion, bearing more than 800 American refugees, neared New York tonight, convoyed by two United States destroyers, after a voyage from Petsamo, Finland, through uncharted mine field.

Destroyers met the ship 500 miles at sea in mid-afternoon to provide an honorary escort for Crown Princess Martha, of Norway, and her three children. Also aboard was Mrs. Florence Jaffray Harriman, United States minister to Norway.

The ship, for whose safety Germany warned she would not be responsible in view of recent mine layings in its "total blockade" of waters around the British Isles, was scheduled to dock here at noon (E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Describing the feelings of the passengers aboard the ship, Otto Tolischus, New York Times correspondent aboard, radioed the Times today:

"The latter threat (the danger of mines) became a grim reality when the German radio stations heard abroad began to denounce the trip daily throughout the first five days as 'wanton voyage'; 'criminal folly.' Sardonic Lord Haw-Haw broadcast from Germany that only a miracle could bring the ship safely through the danger zone.

"Well, the miracle happened. There was plenty of nervous wear and tear for all aboard, much seasickness aggravated by the overcrowded conditions on the ship, considerable general hardship that sent some 30 persons to the hospital and contributed to the deaths of two women who came aboard in a critical condition. But, for the rest, the voyage passed without any more serious incidents."

The American Legion, which sailed from New York July 25 under the command of Captain B. E. Torning, left Petsamo August 16, carrying Americans who had been stranded in Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany and the Netherlands.

Nazis Resigned To Long War, Seversky Says

RAF Can Hold Out Until Fog Saves Britain, He Believes.

(Editors: Major Alexander P. De Seversky, a leader in American aviation for two decades as plane designer, record-breaking pilot and manufacturer, forecasts in the following article that the aerial battle of Britain will be a drawn-out affair.)

By MAJOR ALEXANDER P. DE SEVERSKY.

(Copyright, 1940, by United Press.)

The course of the aerial Battle of Britain thus far would seem to bear out the view, expressed by the writer in a previous dispatch, that this fateful air engagement will be long-drawn. It is apparent that the Germans, their earlier hope of a knock-out blow having faded, have resigned themselves to a protracted, tedious and stubborn air struggle.

On the basis of such information as is now available, we are now justified in assuming that the Royal Air Force can hold out until it is saved by the bell—which is to say by the sleety and foggy fall weather. Alerady British airmen have reported occasional ice formation on their wings.

The discrepancy between German claims and British admissions as to the extent of damage to British objectives, especially aviation plants, is of course vast. But even if we give the Nazis the benefit of the doubt, that damage evidently is not extensive enough to make its consequences felt acutely for a month or two—and by that time the weather factor will provide a respite.

Germany has little to gain, other than melodramatic prestige, by actual occupation of the British Isles. Except for coal, there is little in England that Hitler needs. His purpose will be to put British industry out of commission rather than to take it over, making the islands dependent on Germany for its economic rehabilitation.

Such destruction he can accomplish without landing a single soldier, if and when he clears the skies over the country of its aerial defenders. In fact, were the Nazis to occupy England and then systematically destroy its industrial wealth, they would be accused of vandalism. Doing it by air bombardment, under the pretext of protracted preparation for invasion, they have a tactical justification. The effects would be the same, if they succeed—England would be left to dig itself out of the debris for generations.

German, Italian Sectors Blasted By RAF Planes

Throngs of Night-Lifers 'Caught' by Alarm in British Capital.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(Wednesday)—Adolf Hitler's night-flying raiders continued "insomnia raids" on the London area last night and early today, dropping incendiary bomb clusters which started fires—and disturbing the slumbers of millions. But the British, after their six-hour siege in shelters Monday night and Tuesday morning, took the two alarms last night and today much more phlegmatically.

There was less aintiaircraft cannonading and searchlight activity, and many a yawning householder refused to leave his snug bed.

The first raid, lasting about 2 1-2 hours, ended just before midnight, and was followed by another of less than an hour's duration shortly after midnight.

The British declared damage was small, though they acknowledged some fires and some casualties occurred.

The raiders again operated singly or in small groups, but threw in the pace-changing "all-clear" period in contrast with their chain raid marathon of the previous night.

Other Areas Raided.

Similar harassing raids were conducted through the dark hours over nearly all of England and Wales.

The British everywhere kept their searchlight and antiaircraft fire down to the minimum.

Bombs fell north of one midland town, and Germans were reported over several other communities in the same area. At one northeast town a Nazi plane swooped down for a bit of ground-strafing, with a freight train as the apparent target.

A short while after the "all-clear" signal, new rumbling sounds were heard distantly in the London area, indicating that the Nazis had not yet given up their prowling. There was the faint drone of an engine, and searchlights flickered on and off sporadically.

In southeast England, incendiary bombs hit two churches. The British said a large fire in the roof of one was extinguished.

Also in the southeast a raider dropped high-explosive and incendiary bombs just as searchlights picked him up and guns hammered at him.

A midland town had its longest alarm of the war during the night. Explosions were heard and it was announced that about 100 incen-

Sheriff Derrick's Condition Is 'Fair'

Sheriff P. W. Derrick last night was in "fair" condition at Crawford W. Long hospital where he is recovering from a slight stroke suffered at his home on Rock Springs road early yesterday morning.

At first physicians feared the veteran bailiff of the Georgia court of appeals had been stricken by a heart attack, but later discovered a temporary paralysis on his right side which, last night, was reported disappearing.

A member of the Fulton county jury commission, Sheriff Derrick has for the past two weeks been working on the regular purge of the petit and grand jury lists.

LAUGHING AT RABIES—This terrier, despite his cheerful look, actually bit a person, so he is in the city pound awaiting the outcome of a rabies test. He may not have it, because city health authorities report a 75 per cent decrease in the mad dog disease this summer over the corresponding period of 1939.

Rabies in City In July Drops 75 Per Cent

110 'Mad Dog' Bites Year Ago Slump to 10 for Month.

By CAROLYN McKENZIE.

Rabies in Atlanta decreased almost 75 per cent last month over the corresponding month of 1939, W. H. Edwards Jr., public health engineer, announced yesterday.

City health officials recorded 40 positive heads for July, 1939; while that figure dropped to 12 last month. During the period of last summer, Atlantans suffered 110 "mad dog" bites, whereas the number dropped to 10 in July, 1940. The total number of dog bites also shows a decrease of 160.

To battle serious dog bites, more than 10,000 Atlantans are co-operating with health authorities. The most dangerous dog, they learn, is the small puppy under three months of age who still drinks milk and is petted by everyone who comes along. As many as 23 persons have received rabid bites from one of these under-inoculation-age pups.

Almost 1,000 persons were bitten by dogs last year; but only 62 dogs were rabid and out of the 62 only two had been inoculated.

Officials realize that protected dogs are well worth having in anyone's home or back yard. Of Atlanta's 32,000 dog populace, 5,000 are destroyed each year by the city, 2,500 by the Atlanta Humane Society. A licensed dog is never picked up unless he bites someone; and most of these dogs are returned to their owners within a few weeks.

The problem of the city health department is to control the 6,000 unprotected dogs.

McNary Criticizes Trade Policy, Approves Power Development

Republican Vice Presidential Nominee's Acceptance Speech Attacks Roosevelt 'Statism,' Fails To Condemn New Deal in Its Entirety.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Charles Linza McNary formally accepted the Republican vice presidential nomination today with an address criticizing the administration's reciprocal trade treaty system and approving continued federal development of hydro-electric power.

The veteran Oregon senator, long a champion of protective farm legislation, told thousands of westerners that "any secretary of agriculture would be hampered by the reciprocal trade system."

He reiterated a charge made before the senate last spring that the treaties had failed to "dissipate, alleviate or liquidate the uneconomic conditions" facing agriculture.

He described power as "the prime requisite of modern industrial existence" and declared:

"Unfalteringly, the congress has granted to the public preferential rights to power generated from navigable streams. Such power should be common heritage. The government, having made this power available, should have an indisputable right to control its utilization and distribution."

Power dams, he asserted, are paying their way—"from the standpoint of the treasury, the records of the great public power projects at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado and at Bonneville on the Columbia are reassuring."

He chided the Roosevelt administration for its doctrine of "statism" but refused to "condemn the New Deal in its entirety."

He took sharp issue, however, with the New Deal's effort to "inculcate reliance on the government in place of self-reliance, and to supplant hope with fear of what lies ahead."

"We must decide whether America shall advance again along the path of her historic mission; or retreat still further into the fields of futility," the nominee declared.

Knudsen Here, Tells Defense Spending Plans

U. S. To Expend 2 Billion Before October 1, He Says.

The United States will spend another two billion dollars before October 1 for arms, ammunition and equipment, William S. Knudsen, head of the national defense commission, declared here in an interview last night.

Another five billion dollars will be available when that sum is exhausted, Knudsen said. Already, since the defense program was inaugurated this summer, two billion dollars has been spent, he said.

He urged "everybody to work to make the program a success—banker, lawyer, industrialist and worker. If everybody co-operates, we'll get the job done," he said.

Knudsen arrived in Atlanta late last night en route from the west coast to Washington. He was accompanied by General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps; Colonel Ray A. Dunn, Major K. B. Wolfe and Captain E. H. Beebe.

The party remained overnight at a hotel and were to have left for the capital this morning by plane.

Axis Aides Call Balkan Leaders To Conference

Soviet Seen Capitalizing Upon Dispute Between Budapest, Bucharest.

By The Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 27.—Reports of bloody border clashes between Soviet and Rumanian troops—confirmed by Soviet circles in Bucharest—brought today a swift intervention by German and Italian diplomacy apparently intended to save peace in the Balkans, "feeder states" for the Axis.

(Both Russia and Germany were reported to be massing troops near the Balkan frontiers, according to the United Press.

(Adolf Hitler was reported, without confirmation, to have increased his army of the east to nearly 100 divisions, or perhaps 1,500,000 troops.)

The Hungarian and Rumanian foreign ministers, it was learned tonight, have been urgently summoned to a conference with Axis spokesmen in Vienna in an apparent move by Italy and Germany to make a quick settlement of the Balkan crisis lest Soviet Russia have opportunity to move further into that area.

Thursday Conference.

Specifically, they were called to meet Thursday in Vienna with Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian foreign minister.

Just before this became known, the German and Italian ministers to Rumania left Bucharest by plane for consultations with their governments, carrying detailed reports of the sharp and bloody clashes between Soviet and Rumanian troops. At about the same time, the German and Italian ministers to Budapest also left here.

The Vienna meeting was understood to be designed to force a settlement of Hungary's claims upon Rumania for Transylvania which would avoid a war disturbing to the Balkan productivity so necessary to Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in their war with Britain, and make an end to the long crisis atmosphere. It was learned that both Ciano and Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister, would attend.

Several Hundred Killed.

Accounts of the Soviet-Rumanian clash first reached Budapest in diplomatic dispatches from Rumania and subsequently were confirmed by Soviet circles in Bucharest. These dispatches indicated that the fight, in which several hundred troops were killed, had begun after Russians had overstepped the Rumanian frontier at a point where Rumanian troops had been removed for service in Transylvania.

Nine Men Killed In Mine Explosion

BATES, Ark., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Nine men were killed late today and a tenth was still unaccounted for tonight after an explosion at the Bates Coal Corporation mine near here.

Bodies of the men, all reported badly burned, were taken to Heavener, Okla.

The miners were members of a night crew and had just entered the mine at the time of the explosion, cause of which was not immediately known.

Misery Breeds Radicals, Says Young Doctor

Man Who Has Seen Suffering at Grady Pleads for Bonds.

(This is another in a series of articles stressing the needs of the city schools, hospitals, and fire department and the vital necessity for a favorable vote on the bond issue September 4.)

By HAROLD MARTIN.

The young doctor was so full of what he was saying he forgot to eat. He pounded on the table and he poured his words out as if they were hot inside and must find release to keep him from exploding.

"Fifth Columnists. Fifth Columnists? The papers full of stuff about Fifth Columnists and Communists and radicals. And every once in a while somebody comes along with that old crack about 'If they don't like this country, let them go back where they came from.' Well. Do you know where they came from? They came from right here. Look out that window at that acre of shacks there. That's where they are coming from.

"We aren't importing our Fifth Columnists. We are raising them. We are making them every day, with the kind of treatment we are giving them. I'm no red and I'm no radical. But when I drive around through sections of this town and see the way some of our folks are living, and then I drive out through some of our rich residential sections and see the way others of our people are living—I know where the seeds of unrest are coming from. I know where the anti's are being bred. They are being bred right here under our nose.

Came From Paris.

"Where did France's revolutionists come from in the days of the Terror? From some other country? No, sir. They came from the gutters and slums of Paris and they trampled a kingdom down.

"Do we have to worry about Moscow or Berlin? Maybe, a little. But first we've got to worry about our own country.

"We are breeding our own revolutionists, as surely as Russia of the Czars bred hers. We are sewing the seeds of discontent in the hearts of every boy and every girl who goes to school in an old firetrap when other kids are going to good schools. We are sewing the seeds of revolution every time a sick man comes down here to Grady hospital and can't get treatment because there's no room. We are making a red and a radical every time a young fellow sees his wife die of tuberculosis because she can't get in Battle Hill.

"We think we are eaten up with taxes, and maybe they are pretty burdensome sometimes. But the fellow bellowing about taxes never sat in a waiting room down here at Grady with a sick baby in his arms, waiting hour after hour till we could get to him.

Must Do Something.

"We've got to do some distributing of wealth or there will come a day when it will be redistributed for us. We've got to put some of it into such things as adequate hospitals, adequate schools, and such. We've made a good beginning already, with the housing projects taking human beings out of pig-sties and rat holes. But we haven't yet begun to do the job we've got to do.

"I came up the easy way. My daddy had enough to get along all right. I didn't know that there was the suffering and the misery in the world that I have found since I became a doctor.

"The people suffer a long time and they suffer in silence. But there will come a time when they will rise up. All they need is a leader, a man with a voice, a man with an ideal to which they can cling.

"We talk about national defense, and about needing guns and planes and ships. We do. But if we had the greatest army and the greatest navy and the greatest air force in the world, w'd still be rotten at the core so long as the submerged millions had never gotten anything out of this democracy that they think is worth fighting for.

"What Is Freedom?"

"What is freedom to a hungry man. He'd trade it for a crust of bred. What is liberty to a sick man. He'd swap it for health.

"Give a man a job to work at and some sense of security. Give him a place where he can go to be healed when he is sick. Give him some of the benefits of the democracy we boast about and then let somebody make a pass at us. A man will fight for a job, but not if he has no job. A man will fight for his home, but not if that home is a hovel. A man will fight for a form of government, but not if the best that form of government has ever offered him is hunger, sickness and hopelessness.

"You take this bond issue, for instance. There will be people who will vote against the bonds, just because they are afraid it will cost them a little more in taxes. There will be others who don't vote at all, just because they are just too d—n lazy and disinterested to vote. What do they care about the schools. They've got no kids in school. What do they care about the sick who come to Grady. They've got the dough to go to a private doctor.

"O. K. Let 'em sit. But if they would come down here and spend one day with me, and see what I see, and hear what I hear, they'd soon change their minds.

"Let 'em watch a baby die because it couldn't get in here while it could have been saved. Let 'em watch a kid leave here, slowly bleeding to death from a fibroid tumor, because we haven't got a place to put her to bed even if the operating room was free.

"You fellows on the newspapers pretend you are tough. You aren't. You can't stand the sight of human suffering. We doctors are supposed to be hard and callous and inured to suffering. That's a lie, too.

"The hard ones, the callous ones, are those who sit in their ivory towers and figure, because they aren't hungry, nobody's hungry, because they aren't sick, nobody's sick.

"Let them sit. Let them wait. The French of the ruling class were blind to suffering, too. But when the mob finally came rolling up out of the gutters of St. Antoine . . . they got theirs."

THE RESULT . . . ?—Wait, wait, wait, hour after weary hour, while the baby frets and the back grows tired. Grady's doctors and nurses work as fast as they can, but diagnosis and treatment is not something to be done hastily, and for many the hours are long. What kind of citizens are being made here—what do they think of their city and their country, when their need is so great, and the help they receive so slow in coming? Is it true, as a young doctor accuses today, that in shabby schools and overburdened hospitals we are breeding our own Fifth Columnists?

Cabinet Quits In Argentine Political Crisis

Acting President Castillo Expected To Name New Body.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27.—(AP) Argentine cabinet ministers under President Roberto Ortiz submitted their resignations today to Acting President Ramon Castillo as a sequel to the land purchase scandal which precipitated a political crisis.

Castillo is expected to designate a new cabinet.

President Ortiz, who has been ill, resigned after a senate investigation of the land deal. Although he himself was not named in the committee's findings, some of his ministers were involved.

When congress, however, refused to accept his resignation Ortiz decided to remain in the office which Castillo has been actively administering since his illness.

Farley Knows Successor But Again He Won't Tell

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP) Postmaster General Farley knew another secret today, the name of his successor in the cabinet, but he kept it to himself.

Farley talked jovially with newsmen after attending his last cabinet meeting, telling them he knew who would succeed him but wouldn't tell. His resignation takes effect Saturday.

House Group Holds Trainees To 1,000,000

Only That Number Can Be Instructed at One Time Under Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The House Military Affairs Committee decided today to limit to 1,000,000 the number of men who might be ordered to training in the land and naval forces at any one time.

Earlier the committee had agreed on a 900,000 limit upon those who might be given army training; but it added another 100,000 for the expanding navy.

Committee aides said the navy did not plan to use its quota next year, but that it had indicated the need might arise in 1942 or 1943.

With little debate, the committee also wrote into the measure a War Department proposal for creation of the draft machinery. Under its terms, the President would create a selective service system, civilian local boards and appeal agencies.

One or more local boards would be created in each county. They would be composed of at least three members appointed by the President on recommendation of state governors "or comparable executive officials."

These local boards would have the power to hear and determine questions of exemption or deferment.

The house committee adjourned for the day without completing consideration of the measure.

Pay Increases Are Urged for State Railroads

Seven Georgia-Florida Lines Would Participate in Boosts.

Seven railroads operating in Georgia and Florida would participate in wage increases under recommendations of the Railroad Carrier Industry Committee, the regional wage and hour office reported yesterday.

They and 13 other carriers in the southeast would increase their wage payments by $4,444,794 a year if the recommendations become effective.

The majority report recommended minimum wage rates of 36 cents an hour for trunk line railroads and 33 cents for short lines. A minority report recommended a 40-cent minimum for class 1 railroads, although not rejecting the majority recommendations.

Colonel Philip B. Fleming, national administrator of the wage and hour division, has ordered a public hearing on the recommendations at Washington September 23.

Railroads operating in Georgia and Florida which would be affected are the Seaboard Air Line, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Railway, Central of Georgia, Florida East Coast, Louisville & Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis.

The railroad committee, including four members representing the public and four representing employers, heard estimates that more than 60,000—mostly unskilled labor—out of the industry's 1,000,000 employes would receive wage increases if the recommendations become effective. Class 1 railroads estimated the 36-cent minimum would cost them an additional $6,903,609 per year. The short lines estimated the 33-cent minimum would mean increases totaling about $280,000 for 17,000 employes.

The carriers estimated that $6,203,000 of the increase would fall on roads in the south and west, and that $4,444,794 would be borne by 20 roads—including those in Georgia and Florida—out of the country's 136 class 1 railroads.

Home Loans In State Total $4,279,000

2,192 Mortgages Recorded During July, Bank Reports.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Urban home financing in Georgia in July totaled $4,279,000, with 2,192 mortgages being recorded, economists of the Federal Home Loan Bank board reported today.

The figures compare with 1,884 mortgages amounting to $3,230,000 in July a year ago.

By types of lenders the home financing for July this year was as follows:

	Number	Amount
Savings and loan associations	884	$1,516,000
Ins. companies	144	740,000
Banks and trust companies	482	1,099,000
Individuals	520	548,000
Others	162	376,000

The board's division of research and statistics compiles monthly figures on non-farm property recordings up to $20,000 each in value, assisted by President O. K. Senate Group To Hold Profits Tax Hearings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP) Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, announced tonight that the senate finance committee would conduct three days of hearings, beginning September 3, on the excess profits tax bill approved yesterday by the house ways and means committee.

Harrison said he thought hearings would be necessary because the measure reported by the house group differed in some respects from original subcommittee recommendations. Senate committee members sat in on subcommittee hearings in an attempt to expedite senate action on the measure after its consideration by the house.

Coast Defenses To Be Studied By Joint Board

Making Newfoundland, East Canada Stronger Set as Goal.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(UP)—The first step in the new policy of hemispheric security in which the governments of Canada and the United States are co-operating is to be the strengthening of the continent's defenses along the eastern Canada and Newfoundland seacoast.

The joint Canadian - United States defense board gave definite intimation to this effect tonight when, at the close of two sittings that lasted more than eight hours, Co-chairmen Fiorello LaGuardia and Colonel O. M. Biggar announced a recess from further sessions until the service members of the board have an opportunity to complete a tour of existing defenses along the Canadian and Newfoundland Atlantic coast.

To Visit Coast.

The service members of the board — representing the navy, army, and air forces in the two countries—are to leave Ottawa tomorrow, and will visit the entire Atlantic coast area, travelling for the greater part by plane.

The board will resume its business in Washington September 9.

Circles close to the board were forecasting tonight that the first report of the board, embodying the eastern coast program, would be in the hands of the administrations at Ottawa and Washington not later than September 15, less than a month after the historic meeting at Ogdensburg on August 17 between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacKenzie King.

Forming Itinerary.

Tonight members of the Canadian naval, military and air services were busy working out the itinerary of the board. The intimation was that it would not be made public, and that newspapermen and other outside observers would be excluded from the tour.

The Canadian service members of the board are Brigadier Kenneth Stuart, D. S. O. deputy chief of general staff; Captain L. W. Murray, deputy chief of naval staff; and Air Commodore A. A. L. Cuffe, Royal Canadian Air Force.

The United States service members who will make the trip include Captain Harry W. Hill, Commodore F. F. Sherman, and Lieutenant Colonel Joseph T. McNarrney.

WPA Will Dig 1,000 Wells for State's Schools

Agency and Georgia Health Unit To Spend $148,000 on Project

Georgia WPA will dig 1,000 wells, install 900 pumps and 500 drinking fountains and clean out 300 springs before schools open this fall.

Work will begin immediately on the project, designed to protect the health of school children throughout the state, R. L. MacDougall, state administrator, said yesterday.

First work will be done on 31 Fulton county schools at a total cost of $3,436. Entire project will cost approximately $148,000, more than $80,000 of which will be put up by the State Health Department.

The project was undertaken after a survey of drinking water facilities at public schools showed situations that constituted a serious health hazard. Some schools have no drinking water except open springs at a distance from the buildings. Others have wells in poor condition.

Samuel C. Dobbs Enters Hospital

BALKAN CRISIS NEAR BREAKING POINT—A crisis in the Balkans was reported yesterday to be near the breaking point following bloody clashes between Rumanian and Russian troops. The clash, in which airplanes also took part, is said to have occurred just north of Dorohoi, when Soviet troops crossed the border into Rumania. Hundreds of troops on both sides were reported killed and two Soviet warplanes shot down. A second incident further threatened Balkan peace, the Hungarian foreign office accusing a Rumanian pilot of shooting down a Hungarian bomber on Hungarian soil and troops were said to have been concentrated on both sides of the Rumanian-Hungarian border. Meanwhile, the Axis powers hurriedly summoned Rumanian and Hungarian foreign ministers to Vienna for consultations in a move to gain a quick solution of unrest lest Russia capitalize by making further inroads into southeastern Europe and thus deter the German-Italian assault on Britain.

In a second incident further threatening the uneasy peace of southeastern Europe, the Hungarian foreign office accused a Rumanian pilot of shooting down a Hungarian bomber on Hungarian soil today, and protested angrily to Bucharest against what was termed this "unprovoked and murderous attack."

After Hungarian officials had been in communication with Berlin, however, the foreign office spokesman said:

"The attack was provocatory, but we ourselves will not provoke."

News Suppressed.

The Hungarian official news agency suppressed the news of the bomber's destruction and the newspapers were forbidden to mention it.

More sensational, however, was the report of the Rumanian-Russian border fight.

This news was neither confirmed nor denied by the Rumanian government, but a foreign military attache in Bucharest wrote that the Rumanians alone had lost more than 300 soldiers.

His information was that the outbreak occurred just north of the town of Dorohoi, in the province of Moldavia, hard by the new frontier fixed two months ago when the Russians by ultimatum seized Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina from Rumania. The fighting, the attache reported, began Sunday when Soviet troops crossed into Rumania proper, and was resumed yesterday.

The Russians, he added, were understood to have flown over Rumanian territory and to have shot down two of six Rumanian pursuit ships which rose to the attack.

(In Moscow, both Russian and official Rumanian diplomatic sources declared they had received no information of such a clash.)

Rumors in Bucharest.

Bucharest itself heard rumors of various encounters between Hungarian and Rumanian planes over Rumanian Transylvania—the province demanded by Hungary—but these, too, were not discussed officially.

The Hungarian bomber declared here to have been destroyed was said by the foreign office to have been shot down about 18 miles within the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier. One of its crew of three was declared to have been wounded.

The attacking craft, said the foreign office, was plainly marked with the Rumanian insignia and disappeared after the struggle in the direction of Transylvania.

Hungary's war preparations were speeded up noticeably. Artillery facing the Rumanian frontier were ordered to load their guns with live shells; Budapest and other Hungarian cities were under semi-blackouts.

Thus, circumstances appeared to be making increasingly difficult a fruitful resumption of negotiations over Hungary's demand for Transylvania, which was lost to her after the World War.

HUNGARIANS DROP PROPAGANDA LEAFLETS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A Rumanian government spokesman said tonight that a Hungarian plane had dropped propaganda leaflets in Transylvania on Sunday and that this probably was the craft which the Hungarian foreign office asserted had been shot down today.

Hartsfield Hits Foes and Cites City Economies

Traffic Laws Now Applied to Both High and Low, He Says.

Mayor Hartsfield, speaking at a sixth ward rally last night, predicted his re-election because he said "I am convinced that the great majority of citizens in this city do not want to return to the chaotic conditions of four years ago."

He assailed his opposition for their campaign of criticism and charged "they have attacked the police department because we have made Atlanta's traffic laws applicable to both high and low."

He said when "we stopped ticket fixing, we cut out the precious privilege of a lot of people who thought they were above the law."

He then cited the fact that at least two Atlanta bank officials were fined for traffic law violations and added, "four years ago, the officer who would have dared to arrest these men would have been relegated to the morning watch in Oakland cemetery."

The mayor cited numerous instances of improvements in the city's financial structure and reiterated a previous statement that this year, for the second time in more than 40 years, the city would go through without having to borrow from the banks.

In answering criticism concerning hiding policemen, the mayor said: "I presume they also want us to quit enforcing the laws at night because the folks can't see the policemen. And I guess they also want us to apply this to burglars, robbers and safe blowers."

He also chided his opponent for a recent radio program in which he introduced six speakers who spoke for him but did not give their names.

Said the mayor: "I have been the object of anonymous attacks by telephone and circulars, but this is the first time I ever heard of an anonymous radio broadcast using six speakers, all of whom spoke without giving the people of Atlanta their names."

The mayor will speak again at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at an open air meeting at Lula Kingsberry school. Motion pictures will be shown.

Night Raiders Renew Attack Upon London

Only a few planes penetrated inland and the only bombs dropped on land fell "on the foreshore of the Isle of Wight," the air ministry and ministry of home security asserted.

However, a convoy off the diary bombs fell in open country.

Intermitten raids kept one southeast England area awake most of the night. Fire brigades rushed about, dealing with incendiary bombs. One big fire lit up the surrounding region for several miles, but firemen got it under control in about an hour, they announced.

Early this morning a northwest town was awakened by bomb blasts and antiaircraft fire.

(While the second raid on London still was under way, with antiaircraft guns blazing furiously, it was stated that the city's "outer ring" of defenses again had proven impregnable and that the raiders had been even less successful than on Monday night, when London was raided for six hours and 10 minutes, the longest raid of the war, the United Press reported.)

Before the Nazis struck the government announced the Royal Air Force had "greatly extended" retaliatory forays against the military and industrial fortresses of both Germany and Italy.

Big Crowds "Caught."

This second successive night "nuisance raid," as the British called it, again caught big crowds in West End places of entertainment.

Late dinners were abandoned hurriedly; guests in hotels and restaurants ran to shelter. But theaters continued their shows, their managements making stage announcements.

By contrast with Monday night's chain assaults over 500 miles of England and London's Scottish coast fought an hour's battle with a raiding squadron, with the results unannounced.

Three raiders were shot down yesterday, compared with 17 Monday.

RAF Assaults Related.

A series of air ministry announcements told of the Royal Air Force's blanket assaults on the heart of the Axis industrial system, as well as on 27 airports in Germany, the Netherlands and Belgium.

The communiques did not mention Berlin, where there was a 40-minute air raid alarm Monday night, but they did say that "the main strength" of the British bomber force Monday night was directed at northern Italy and against oil plants near Leipzig and Frankfurt.

At Frankfurt the night raiders also attacked a plane plant and, on the outskirts, heavily bombed an explosive factory.

Other long-distance bombers pounded the Fiat factory and other targets in industrial north Italy with six tons of bombs in a 40-minute assault, the fifth in this area since the war started.

Pilots' reports of the Italian raids said Turin's Fiat factory, which makes planes, tanks and motor cars, was set ablaze so brilliantly that the fire guided late arrivals to the scene.

Also blasted was the Magneto Marelli Electrical factory near Milan. Here, a pilot said his first "stick" of bombs started four fires and set off two explosions; his second, "bright blue and white explosions" and his third "caused 14 fires in a line."

London Stakes All on 5-Point Defense Set-Up

Hundreds of Floating 'Elephant Balloons' Encircle Capital.

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.

Those defenses are:

"Our fat friends"—high-flying balloons trailing lengths of steel cable, as well as other snares.

Swift Hurricane and Spitfire fighter planes.

British authorities frankly admit that despite repeated raids topped off by last night's six-hour bombing, the system yet has to undergo its first real test—resistance against mass formations approaching in unending waves in a sustained effort to smash completely this empire heart.

But they say they are ready to gamble on its efficacy from what they have witnessed thus far.

The job of the RAF bomber—its crew a highly trained personnel winging far over Germany and the Alps into Italy—is to freeze or destroy the enemy at his bases, keep him busy at home to sap his offensive strength.

Searchlight and antiaircraft batteries ring London so that when both go into action as last night, beams and gun flashes resemble a huge wide-spaced picket fence. Inside this big ring are nests of other guns and searchlights.

These guns and lights work together so that when light beams converge on a raider the guns automatically get his range and let go.

'Will Be Mayor If We Don't Go To War' LeCraw

'Whispering Campaign' That He Cannot Serve Is Charged.

"War is the only eventuality which will prevent me from serving as mayor of Atlanta when you select me in the September 4 primary," Roy LeCraw told an audience at the Highland Avenue school last night as he assailed the record of Mayor Hartsfield.

Asserting that a whispering campaign is going the rounds that even if he is nominated he cannot serve, LeCraw, a major in the Georgia National Guard, said he has been assured by "high military authorities that he will be furloughed from service to serve, unless the United States actually becomes involved in war."

"If we have a war, I naturally will want to join my command and do my share," he said. "We all pray that this country will be able to remain at peace. In any event, I'll be mayor while we are at peace and major if we go to war."

LeCraw also assailed rumors that he plans a reduction in the salaries of city employes, pledging that he will not cut present salaries and asserting some of those in the lower bracket are too low even now.

He scored what he termed a "traffic case racket which bled citizens of around $500,000 last year," hit "hiding policemen who sit ready to pounce on any poor fish who passes by," lashed out at an increase of $2,000,000 a year in revenue from ad valorem taxes and attacked Hartsfield for "a campaign of intimidation of citizens who oppose his high-handed policies."

LeCraw said Hartsfield had gone to employers and tried to force them to whip employes into voting for his renomination, and charged that the only reason he did not announce the names of persons speaking in behalf of the LeCraw candidacy was to prevent them from coming under the lash of the "Hartsfield gestapo."

LeCraw will end his campaign at a meeting at Piedmont park at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Wage-Hour Act Interpretations Scored Here

Some Called 'Unfair' in Resolution Before Garment Makers.

Southern garment manufacturers yesterday heard a battery of resolutions directed against certain "interpretations" of the wage-hour law which, it is claimed, discriminate between large and small industries and "strangle enterprise" by dictating work conditions.

The resolutions were presented at the second day's meeting of the Garment Manufacturers' Association by a group of committees and turned over to the organization's president, W. J. Vereen, of Moultrie.

Seek Alterations.

Describing as "un-American and impractical" some interpretations of the law which deal with overtime and rest periods in the garment industry, one resolution said the industry was generally in support of the wage-hour bill but recommended that "unfair practices be altered."

Another condemned the Labor Relations Board, declaring "those who cherish our form of government demand that the practices of the board" which are unfair to business "be stopped before further irreparable damage is done." The resolution supported the Smith congressional investigating committee studying the board.

Advantage Claimed.

Southern garment men also have attacked the wage-hour bill because of "multiple minimum wage factors" which, it is claimed, give large plants an advantage over small plants by setting up different rates for different classifications of garments and then arbitrarily determining under what classifications certain garments fall.

A third resolution compared the situation to that of France before her defeat where "a system of strangulation of industry by government fiat parallels a system now being built up in this nation."

Following the presentation of the resolutions, A. W. DeBirny, assistant general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission, conducted a round table discussion on lawful prices, discounts, and other fair trade practices under the Robinson-Patman law.

WAGE-HOUR CHIEF—Colonel Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage-hour division of the Department of Labor (left), will address the Southern Garment Manufacturers' Association convention at noon today. With him is James Johnson, supervising inspector of the Georgia-Florida region of the division. Colonel Fleming was drafted from the army less than a year ago to bring order out of the chaos in that federal agency.

Fleming Skips Army Friends On Visit Here

Would Like To See Atlanta Embroidery Plants, He Says.

By JACK SPALDING.

Building dams and bridges for the army is one thing. Supervising the embroidery industry is another.

Yesterday Colonel Philip B. Fleming, an army engineer on leave to reorganize the wage-hour division of the Department of Labor, came to Atlanta, ignored his military brethren in and around the city and announced that if there were any embroidery plants in the neighborhood he would like to see them. The colonel and his regiment of inspectors now are looking around for sweated embroiderers after successfully convincing the lumber, textile and other industries that complying with the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards act is the wise thing to do.

Later the colonel explained that dams and bridges, wages and hours are not as far apart as they seem at first sight; that in the last analysis labor conditions are as important to national defense as anything else. He admitted, though, he preferred building bridges.

Few Complainers.

He scoffed at the idea that shortening work hours will slow up production of vital armaments. Very few concerns have come sobbing to him with that argument, and investigation usually disclosed an ulterior motive.

"You don't double production by doubling work hours," he stated. "After a certain point a man gets tired and careless. In the last war Great Britain found her workers could turn out 10 per cent more stuff in a 45-hour week than in a 66-hour week."

What the American optimum work load is, the colonel doesn't know yet. But tests are being made to ascertain it.

Fleming heartily disagrees with the theory that a wage-hour law contributed materially to the fall of France.

Don't Understand.

"People," he said, "don't realize the French law set an absolute ceiling of 40 hours in one week, with no provision for overtime work. And the law turned into a five-day week law, with factories standing idle on Saturdays and Sundays."

On the other hand he pointed out that American law permits employers to work their labor as long as they like, as long as they pay time and a half for overtime.

Radiating cheer about the future of the agency, and confident that eventually it will grow to full stature and honor among the other New Deal agencies, Fleming said a nation-wide enforcement drive recently had begun to bring five other industries into line, among them furniture, and leather goods. And in addition to checking on the condition of embroidery workers, he is currently interested in the paper industry's interpretation of the wage-hour act.

To Decide Issues.

He announced that in the next few weeks he intends to draw a distinction between administrative and executive employes under the act, and to decide whether or not newspaper reporters are professional men, and therefore exempt from the law's provisions.

Executive and administrative workers have been lumped under one heading and professional workers under another since enforcement of the act began. But congress, he thinks, intended there should be a distinction between the first two.

Many industries have advocated the change. Labor as a whole has been against it.

Colonel Fleming will address the Southern Garment Manufacturers' Association tomorrow at the Biltmore. The association has put up a vigorous fight against the wage-hour act, and now has a case testing its constitutionality pending before the United States circuit court of appeals in the District of Columbia.

3 Candidates Are Taken for 'Financial Ride'

Man Arrested After Union Head Complains to Police.

At least three political candidates and maybe more were taken for a short "financial ride" in supplying funds for a "barbecue" as city police reported yesterday they arrested a man who gave his name as Gordon Conner, 42, of 125 Currier street, N. W. He is being held on a charge of suspicion-investigation.

Candidates who are reported to have contributed to the "barbecue" fund are Eugene Talmadge, $25; Councilman Charles Chosewood, $10, and Alderman Raleigh Drennon, $5.

Conner, according to police, represented himself as the secretary of Local No. 34, of the United Auto Workers. He was arrested on complaint of H. F. Ozburn, of 573 Brown street, S. E.

C. M. Gilman, of 412 Georgia avenue, president of the auto workers' local, several days ago notified newspapers that a man using the union's name was collecting funds for a barbecue. At the same time he notified police and asked the arrest of the man.

Detective Frank White, who with Detective Hugh Brown, have been assigned to investigate, said yesterday Conner is also under investigation in connection with several bad check cases.

Peanut Harvesting Delayed by Rain

The Agricultural Marketing Service reported heavy rainfall had slowed the volume movement of peanuts from the southeastern states this season.

Harvesting of runners was expected to be delayed until late September.

The Virginia and North Carolina growers were disturbed by the high water and continued rains of early August, with unofficial indications the crop would be damaged 15 to 25 per cent.

The latest shipment figures for Georgia, Florida and Alabama showed 41 cars of Spanish and 14 cars of runners moved during the week ending August 10.

This compared with 91 cars of Spanish and 23 cars of runners moved during the comparative week ending August 12, 1939.

For the year ending August 10, shipments were 6,631 cars, including 4,815 Spanish and 1,816 runners, compared with the previous year shipments of 7,640 cars, including 5,445 Spanish and 2,185 runners.

Immigration Officials Hunting Eight Aliens

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The immigration border patrol kept a lookout today for eight aliens unaccounted for among 18 men said to have escaped from the Devil's Island penal colony off French Guiana, South America.

Inspector W. B. Thomas said the missing eight Frenchmen might have gone ashore at any point along the Florida keys. He declared he believed the men in jail here were from Devil's Island, but their excellent condition made him suspicious of their tale of a 3,500-mile journey in the open boat.

On the first day of his service, Mr. Walton was anxious to make a good impression with all of his 280 pounds. He strode into the jury room and seated himself upon a sturdy looking chair. DON'T ARGUE ABOUT IT

How many votes did President Roosevelt receive in the election of 1932? How did Tennessee go? Suppose neither candidate gets a majority—who makes the choice? Who counts the electoral vote? Does a President have to be born in the United States? Who would succeed to the Presidency if something happened to both the President and the Vice President? What are the exact words used by the President in the oath taken at his inauguration? Are these words prescribed by the Constitution? Was a woman ever a candidate for the Presidency?

These and countless other questions will be discussed and argued over times without number in the next few months. You don't have to guess—be informed. The following group of three bulletins, available from The Constitution's Service Bureau, 1013 Thirteenth Street, Washington, D. C., will settle the questions definitely:

1. State Votes in Presidential Elections.
2. Presidential Elections Since 1789.
3. The Presidency.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Aug. 27.—Hoyt Simpkins, youthful Griffinite, rode a bicycle approximately 65 miles to the Simpkins-Yates family reunion Saturday at Carrollton.

His aim was to make the trip in four hours. And he barely missed it, pedaling the distance in fours hours and 35 minutes.

Arnold Stages Political Show With His Bear

Mock Recorder's Court Held at Rally in McClatchey Park.

"Mapsie" the Bear held a mock recorder's court at McClatchey park last night before an enthusiastic audience of more than a thousand persons. "Mapsie" gave the "bear" facts.

"Mapsie," in case you're not informed, is the campaign mascot of Luke Arnold, candidate for traffic court judge. The animal, who weights at least 400 pounds, including fur coat, was given to Arnold last week by a campaign well-wisher.

Arnold spoke in behalf of his campaign with "Mapsie" on the platform and Arnold concealed. Thus the words over the amplifiers appeared to come from the mouth of the bear. Later, Arnold became serious and pledged voters that "your word will be as good as a policeman's."

Arnold and "Mapsie" will give a repeat performance at 8 o'clock tonight at Kirkwood school.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP) Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, said after a White House conference today that President Roosevelt favored his proposed amendment to the $5,000,000,000 defense bill earmarking $100,000,000 for housing projects.

He told reporters that the President preferred the form of his amendment which would leave open the question of whether the United States Housing Authority, Federal Housing Administration, Federal Works Agency, or the army and navy should do the building.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The 6,000-volume library of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson has been acquired by Brenau College and will be dedicated to the memory of the late Felix Jackson.

The library, consisting chiefly of reference books, history, civics, philosophy, religion and psychology, was purchased from Uly B. Thomson, of Miami Beach, Fla., through a legacy left Brenau by Jackson. Thomson had bought the library at auction at Thompson, Ga., shortly after the Georgia senator died.

Georgia Group For Mobilizing Industry Ready

Channing Cope, W. H. Barnwell Are Made Field Aides.

Preparation of Georgia industry for war or emergency operation was advanced yesterday with completion by Chairman Charles A. Collier of his State Committee for Industrial Mobilization.

He named two field aides, Channing Cope and W. H. Barnwell; a committee secretary, Ivan E. Allen Jr., and the following members: Richard C. Job, state planning board; George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor; and Chamber of Commerce presidents including E. S. Papy, Atlanta; Harry R. Creamer, Augusta; Karl R. Slocum, Macon; T. S. Sloan, Columbus; A. K. Dearing, Savannah; Charles S. Martin, Athens; John T. Phillips, Albany, and J. J. McDonough, Rome.

In a communication to each member, Mr. Collier outlined the procedure to be followed.

"It is my thought," he wrote, "that such a committee can best function in an advisory and consulting capacity, determining what activities should be undertaken; where, when and by whom, depending upon existing agencies for the actual collection of data or for field work which might be required in connection with any matters pertaining to the national defense program.

"This would make for better co-ordination and at the same time permit of efficient utilization of the fine agencies already established throughout the state."

Meanwhile, co-ordination of Georgia's defense preparations was made more effective in a conference of Governor Rivers and heads of his three state-wide organizations for emergency planning.

The committee to relate activities and avoid overlapping consists of Collier, Ryburn Clay, colonel-commander of the State Defense Corps, and Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the State Agricultural College, head of the Ten-Year Balanced Prosperity program.

Eagerness of National Guardsmen to serve was announced by Adjutant General John E. Stoddard. Some of the effects of the present situation and the results of the forthcoming call of guardsmen to active duty were determined.

A check yesterday of employment trends disclosed that most of those going into industrial expansion projects are in the skilled labor class.

For example, eight instrument men left the Savannah division of the highway system, where they were working at $125 a month, to take industrial defense engineering jobs at $250 a month.

Highway Commissioner Lawson L. Patten said mobilization of the National Guard would take additional dozens of men from the road agency roster of approximately 1,200 employes.

Welfare Wages Cut, Arousing Wide Comment

Reductions Caused by Reclassification, Officials Point Out.

Salary reductions in the State Department of Public Welfare were causing considerable comment at the capitol yesterday, but Dr. J. M. Branch, director, and H. Talmadge Dobbs, chairman of the Welfare Board, explained they were due to a reclassification of employes under the merit system being inaugurated in the department.

Dobbs said the reclassification "will establish the agency on a firm business basis and guarantee stabilized salaries based upon earning capacity."

The reclassification, Dobbs said, was required under regulations of the Social Security Board and would in a few instances result in salary increases.

The reductions, it was explained, were applied to workers who entered the service less than six months ago and were drawing the maximum salary for their particular jobs. A six-months period of service was established as a starting point, hence they were placed back upon the minimum salary, to earn increases upon merit and a continuing period of efficient service, he said.

Dobbs expressed the hope the ultimate effect of the new system of "pay based on ability and efficiency" would be "satisfactory to workers as well as to the taxpayers."

2 Youths Indicted On Theft Charges

Two youths who were captured by city police within 15 minutes after they allegedly robbed a filling station and stole an automobile were indicted yesterday by the Fulton grand jury.

They were listed as William Ashe and Harry Martin, of Chattanooga. They are accused of stealing the automobile of Harold C. Woerner from a parking lot on Spring street August 24 and then robbing J. E. Ryan, filling station attendant, of $33.64 in cash and gasoline. City police caught them in West End.

Old State Prison May Aid Defense

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 27.—A movement has been launched here to utilize the now idle factories of the old state prison farm near here in the national defense program, and Governor Rivers has expressed willingness to co-operate by assigning the property to the federal government for use as a training base for army recruits or for any other defense purpose.

Local leaders point out that the facilities would be ideal for a troop concentration point. Prison buildings could be turned into living quarters for officers and enlisted men. Water and sewer facilities already are installed.

Hundreds of adjacent acres of land are available for use as a training ground for troops.

Woman Wants To Sell Boy, 2, to Government

HAZLEHURST, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Postmaster Arley D. Finley had this one to puzzle over:

"I have been told that I could sell my two-year-old boy to the United States, and if you can please tell me what step I should take first and who should I see. This is very important."

Finley said the writer of that request, a Negro woman, left the letter addressed to Rural Letter Carrier Roger S. Burns in a mailbox on his route.

DIVIDEND IS DECLARED.

DETROIT, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Ex-Cell-O Corporation directors declared today a dividend of 65 cents a share, payable October 1 to stock of record September 10. The company, makers of machinery and tools, paid 60 cents in July and 40 cents in April.

Wealthy British Duke Is Dead At Age of 82

Once Sold Part of Holdings for More Than $13,000,000.

He was one of England's four richest dukes.

Among his holdings were the estate at Woburn and what he once called "the fortunate possession of a few lodging houses in Bloomsbury," where the University of London and the Ministry of Information are located.

In 1913, the duke sold part of his London properties for 2,750,000 pounds (then about $13,750,000).

His wife, the Duchess of Bedford, was the famous "Flying Duchess" killed in an airplane crash at sea in March, 1937.

The duke lived alone with his secretary on the Woburn estate, which included a great park, a vast collection of animals and birds, and many art treasures. He had accommodations for 60 guests—but a single guest was a rarity.

Head of Once Dreaded Tong Dies a Christian

Thousands Looked Upon Lee Wing Phin as Their Protector.

Lee Wing Phin, an unassuming Atlanta laundryman and member of a Baptist church, who rose to the head of the once legendary On Leong Tong, died here last night.

He died a Christian, in an American hospital, far from the Oriental mysteries that once made the tong he headed world famous.

His funeral too will be simple, with a Protestant minister officiating, and none of the trappings and splendor of the Orient.

Thousands of American Chinese, from coast to coast, looked upon him as leader and protector, but the organization he ruled is no longer the On Leong Tong of old.

Once Name To Fear.

Once it was a name that inspired fear and respect in tens of thousands of American Chinese. Its dreaded executioners, the hatchet men, enforced Chinese laws with ruthless justice.

Once a war between the On Leong Tong and a rival organization, the Hip Sing Tong, spread terror and death in Chinese communities from coast to coast, and left police authorities helpless. But the On Leong Tong of old is no more.

Now it is known as the On Leong Tong Association, comprising the old tong and members of the Chinese Freemasons. There are unknown thousands of members, but the old customs and practices of yesteryear have given place to the modern.

Father Revolutionary.

Lee Wing Phin, born of Chinese parents in California, returned to his native China as a youth to study. He came back to the United States after a year in college in China and moved to Atlanta.

His father had been instrumental in overthrowing the centuries-old government of China and making it a republic. So Lee Wing Phin resolved to work for a new On Leong Tong.

In 1920 he was Baptized a Christian at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, and since then had labored to promote Christianity among his fellow Chinese. He made several return visits to China, but always returned to Atlanta to continue his work in the tong association.

He became president of the tong 12 years ago, a position he held to his death—a laundryman who ruled an organization that once feared no law.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Gainesville Methodist church with the Rev. Homer Humphries and the Rev. Okley Hood officiating. Burial will be under the direction of A. C. Hemperly.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Major General Benjamin A. Poore, 77, World War hero and commander of the Seventh Corps area at the time of his retirement in 1927, died today.

Italians Admit Factory Hit by British Bombs

Offensive Launched To Drive English Out of Egypt.

ROME, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Italy acknowledged officially today that British bombers, in a new night assault, had scored hits on the important Fiat motors factory at Turin.

The Fascist press, however, devoted itself to new tidings of a desert offensive to drive the British out of Egypt. Il Telegrafo, organ of Foreign Minister Count Ciano, said bluntly it was sure that African Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's "sword will cut the enigma" there.

A high command communique, accusing the British of "once more coming over Switzerland," said there were bomb hits on both the Fiat plant, where planes, tanks and autos are made, and on the sanatorium.

It declared, however, that the British were able to drop only a few bombs because of violent antiaircraft defense, and that one raider was shot down.

(The neutral Swiss government demanded in a note to London, that the British "immediately and scrupulously enforce" orders to the RAF to avoid Swiss territory.)

As for Egypt, the press commentaries today included a second warning from Virginio Gayda, frequently Mussolini's spokesman, that the Egyptians must not oppose Italy's efforts to drive the British from their country—if they wish to keep their independence.

New air raids on British objectives in Egypt and on a British convoy in the eastern Mediterranean were detailed by the Italian high command.

General Ilio Jori, a military expert writing in Il Corriere Padano, said Khartoum, capital and principal garrison city of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and Nairobi, capital of Kenya colony and a railroad center, were likely objectives of the next Italian offensives.

Occupation of Khartoum, besides giving Italians possession of rich cotton lands in the middle Nile, would cut Britain's rail and river communications between Egypt and Central and South Africa.

'Criminal' Air Attacks To Be Repaid--Berlin

British Plane Bombings 'Completely Aimless,' Germany Charges.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Nettled by British raids which on two successive nights have roused Berliners from their beds, authoritative Nazis warned today that "criminal attacks" on civilian objectives in Germany will draw full payment in kind.

Britain's scattering of bombs over Germany is "completely aimless," said one source, whereas "London knows very well that the German air force has confined itself to military objectives in the vicinity of the English capital."

In their latest forays against the British today, the Germans reported a squadron of new Dorniers successfully resorted to low-flying strafing — sometimes only six feet from the ground—to avoid British antiaircraft fire.

Seven British planes were declared shot down and a barracks and hangars destroyed in one hedge-hopping attack on an airdrome near London. The German flight captain was killed.

"Bits of timbers from living quarters, steel helmets and uniforms and human bodies were hurled pell mell through the air," an account of the attack said.

The high command declared Britain lost 70 planes to Germany's 21 in yesterday's fierce air fights which developed from heavy raids carried out on troops, airports, aircraft factories and ports in the British Isles.

The indictment, returned by the federal grand jury investigating war industries, named these defendants:

Wellington Sears & Co., New York, and three of its executives, Weston Howland, of Milton, Mass., vice president; W. O. Hay, of Ridgewood, N. J., and Howard N. Brigham, of New York.

Suncook Mills, of New York, and Suncook, N. H., and J. Linzee Weld, treasurer, and Valentine Dietz Jr., of Yonkers, N. Y.

U. S. Air Plan To Outdistance Hitler Is Seen

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A program for the construction of air armament factories at a rate far exceeding even that of Germany, the world's leading air power, apparently is in the making in official Washington.

That was the deduction drawn today in American aircraft circles from a statement by the information director for the National Advisory Defense Commission that the nation's plane output would be up to 36,000 a year by December, 1941.

Production of that proportion would telescope into one year what Germany accomplished in four years of intensive effort.

The most optimistic estimate of the nation's ability to boost its airplane output—from industrial and not administration sources—up to now was a figure of 36,000 planes a year in annual production by the spring of 1944.

Here is some data to bring the problem into focus:

Industry sources estimate it would require a plant investment of $390,000,000 for airplanes, propellers and engines to produce 36,000 planes a year.

The annual output at that rate would be worth $2,670,000,000. That would be $370,000,000 more than the wholesale value of all the automobiles and trucks produced in the United States and Canada in 1939.

As against 100,000 persons employed in all phases of aircraft production today, more than 500,000 would be necessary to turn out 36,000 planes a year.

Ships of U. S. Made To Yield To Blockade

Virtually All Mail Thus Subjected to British Censorship.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—American carriers of mail between the United States and Lisbon are stopping at Bermuda — and thus subjecting virtually all European mail to British censorship—because of Britain's orders that they must submit to her blockade, it developed tonight.

British consulate officials here said a stop at Bermuda "might be one of the conditions" under which a navicert — in effect a ship's passport through British contraband—would be issued to an American vessel.

In Washington, British embassy officials said they had told the American Export Lines that they would have to submit to the blockade at some point, and explained the company had picked Bermuda in preference to Gibraltar or other ports.

Hitler and Labor

One of the strangest facets in Adolf Hitler's saga of conquest is the fact that, in country after country, labor leaders were the principal individuals used to pave the way for his troops by demoralizing the public and preventing effective defense preparation in advance.

This was true of France, of Czecho-Slovakia, of Poland and of other countries.

Yet, despite this fact, Hitler has exercised greater cruelty to labor in all of the conquered lands than upon any other class of society. As for organized labor, labor unions have simply ceased to exist when the Nazi system is once fully installed.

In fact, one of the greatst threats of all that Nazism means, is leveled against labor unions. Hitler is cruel and hard on all groups in his occupied territory, but he puts far more than a figurative lash to the backs of the workers—in Germany, too.

It may not be true in the United States, the nation now undergoing the preliminary "seeding" by Nazi agents in preparation for possible invasion. Yet it is a recorded fact that both William Green, of the AFL, and John L. Lewis, of the CIO, have opposed the compulsory military service bill, the keystone of the defense program for this nation.

And it is likewise true that the longdrawn debates in the senate on conscription and other defense measures, are largely due to pacifist senators who have been closely allied with labor elements. The delay thus caused may well prove, in some future crisis, the means of fearful suffering and loss to the people of America.

However, regardless of the attitude and action of these figures in the public eye, it is certain that the rank and file of organized labor in the United States is fully aware of the emergency staring this country in the face. Likewise, those men and women, informed and thinking individuals, have watched the treatment which Hitler has meted to labor in the countries he has crushed. And they will have little patience with actions or policies that play into Hitler's hands and that delay the essential defense preparations if this country is to be safe—in time.

Modern Land Seekers

According to recent announcement of the United States Land Office at Los Angeles seven million acres of public domain in southern California are now available for sale or lease in parcels up to five acres. The prices? Not less than $1.25 an acre, plus a $5 filing fee.

Opening day brought to light some rather interesting data, when about 100 applicants filed on land and hundreds of others ferreted through plot and tract books or made inquiries by telephone. Revealing as an indication of a present-day trend was the fact that the majority of persons sought land for vacation homes and cottages, although a few applications came from pensioners and other individuals with steady incomes who said they planned to make permanent homes on the land acquired.

A picture of the early land rush days of the west, when thousands of venturesome men and brave women pioneered that part of the country, was recalled in a measure by the fact that the land was "plenty tough." All of it is located in desert or mountainous regions. Water, except in isolated cases, is available only by drilling of wells. In addition, applicants must locate the land themselves, without aid of enterprising real estate salesmen.

So there are parallels here between the days that have gone and the days that are to come. They invite comparisons. Definitely, the edge seems to be with the old-timers of the early days.

Listing Our Aliens

Registration and fingerprinting of all aliens in the United States is now under way. It is a step which should have been taken long ago. It is, rightfully, a federal undertaking, with the post offices as the places where aliens may go to place their names and fingerprints on the records.

No alien legitimately in this country and whose purposes are honest and above board will object to being listed. In fact, it would be an excellent thing for the nation if everybody, citizens and aliens alike, were fingerprinted for the files at Washington. It would immediately end all confusions as to identity and would be invaluable to the respectable citizen who may, by mischance, find himself in difficulty far from home, through no fault of his own.

However, at this time, with a world in fearful turmoil and with the United States facing a very real threat from the agents and spies and Fifth Columnists within the nation, it is a matter of simple wisdom to record and identify every alien resident here.

One thing is sure, the aliens who come forward promptly and willingly and frankly will thereby largely remove from themselves any individual suspicion. The aliens who will need watching more closely are those who try to avoid, by one trick or pretext or another, the listing and fingerprinting now made mandatory for them.

Honest folks, alien or citizen, have nothing to hide. It is only those with ulterior purpose who will seek to keep secret their real identity or the status of their presence in this country.

"Junior Inspectors' Club"

The "Junior Inspectors' Club" idea seems to be catching on. That the movement is spreading is seen in the news that another large city, Pittsburgh, plans to follow the example of New York. The idea is one of the best to make its way in the national life in many a day.

The purpose of the club is to make youth conscious of, and interested in, their city government, and to enlist them actively in keeping the city clean. The plan works like this: The city is divided into districts, in each of which there is set up a miniature city government, complete with mayor, council and other "officials" elected by the school children in the districts. While seeking the cooperation of the schools, the club in no way interferes with classroom routine. Children become eligible for membership in the club only after they have performed certain duties and have had impressed upon them the importance of their participation in the club's activities.

Already the club in New York has gained results. The members' contribution to the cleanliness of the city has run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The contribution it has made by keeping children off the streets and banding them together in a social effort cannot be computed. Pittsburgh merits commendation for following New York's example, and it is to be hoped other cities will follow, likewise.

We are a restless tribe, and for purposes of being thrown out, any American in office long enough is a rascal.

JUST ONE LITTLE VOTE?

(From The Birmingham Age-Herald.)

The person who refuses to pay his poll tax for the privilege of voting because "my one little vote would do no good" very often underestimates the possible value of his small, single vote. In Jefferson county local races one or two extra votes for a given candidate in each box in the county could have changed the outcome of several important primary races.

But even in a presidential year, if you happen to live in the right state, your vote might become much more important than you might imagine, not in Alabama where the Democratic nominee will get such a whopping majority, of course, but in states where the vote is close.

Dr. John Q. Stewart, of Princeton University, points out that New Hampshire's four electoral votes swung into the Roosevelt columns by a bare majority, and that 1,910 individual votes swinging to Landon could have changed it. And 2,000 votes in a whole state is chicken feed in a presidential election. Extra hard work by the New Hampshire Republican organization could easily have changed 2,000 votes from Roosevelt to Landon in the state of New Hampshire in 1936.

In 1884 only 575 New York voters have changed the result of a presidential election! If 575 Cleveland voters had swung over to Blaine in New York, Blaine would have received the Empire State's 36 electoral votes and thus would have won the election and the course of American political history would have been changed.

Just one little vote? Why, your one little vote, with the votes of several friends, might some day decide a city or county election of the greatest importance.

The sovereign voter may feel at times that his ballot is a hollow privilege, but little votes, when there are enough of them, can make or break statesmen and demagogues, change history, put on or avoid taxes.

There are, in a democracy, few possessions that are more valuable to the individual than his one, single vote.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER

NEW STAGE OF FOREIGN POLICY WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The isolationists have held undisputed sway in the senate since the draft debate began, for the anti-isolationist leaders have not wished to prolong the orgy of oratory by answering them. This has had two results. Debate has reached a level indicated by the interesting contention of Senator Holt, of West Virginia, that a good education is the prelude to treason. And the isolationists have begun to seem to rule the roost in Washington.

The President for one appears to be convinced, however, that the vociferousness of the senators opposing the draft is a poor test of the temper of the country. For, while the isolationists have talked their loudest since the fight over repeal of the arms embargo, the President has calmly proceeded to carry his foreign policy into an important new state of development.

The establishment of the Canadian-American joint defense board is the only completed step the President has taken so far. But the negotiations for the lease of naval and air bases on British possessions in this hemisphere, and the discussions of transfer to the Britih navy of a number of over-age destroyers are equally important signs that this new stage of foreign policy has at last been entered. Taken together, the formation of the link with Canada, and the tackling of the naval and air base and destroyer problems can only mean that the President is ready to acknowledge, more frankly than ever before, his conviction of the dangers to this country involved in total German victory in Europe.

THE PRESIDENT ACTS Each of the three events has an independent history. The need for additional bases in the Atlantic, both on Newfoundland to protect the arms industry of New England and in the Caribbean to protect the Panama Canal, began to preoccupy the War and Navy departments as soon as the passing of control of the Atlantic out of friendly hands loomed as a possibility. Since the invasion of Holland, the heads of the defense services have been hammering on the President to seek such bases without delay.

The transfer of over-age destroyers became an acute problem at about the same time. England and France wanted destroyers early in the spring. Then, in the retreat from Dunkerque, a considerable portion of England's destroyer fleet was either sunk or put out of commission. Prime Minister Winston Churchill addressed a series of pleading personal appeals to the President. After some delay the President saw signs that transfer of the destroyers might be supported by an impressive body of opinion in this country. And negotiations for the needed air and naval bases and discussions of the destroyer transfer were simultaneously initiated.

As for the Canadian-American joint defense board, its history goes back to the summer of 1938, when the President made a surprise pledge to protect the independence of Canada against aggression in a speech at Kingston, Ont. The President's Kingston speech was warmly answered, a few days later, by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Thus, when the war began, there was a prepared basis for co-operation. During the fall or winter, staff talks were quietly started between the Canadian and United States armies. Establishment of the joint board merely formalized the situation created by the staff talks. The President himself proposed the joint board plan directly to Prime Minister King. The two men are old friends, and worked out the details together.

RELATING THE EVENTS But although the histories of the three events are independent, they are linked together by a striking time factor. It was unquestionably because the destroyer problem was also in the air that the question of the naval and air bases could be successfully raised. It seems extremely likely that the existence of a proposal to transfer the destroyers to Canada rather than to England was the impulse that caused the President to act when he did in the matter of the joint board. If the transfer is made, it now seems more likely that the destroyers will go direct to England. Yet this does not diminish the three events' fundamental relationship, or the importance of this relationship as a sign of the trend of foreign policy.

Nor is this the only significance of the timing of the three events. Action along these lines has been in the air for some time. Every week passing without action is seven precious days wasted. It is difficult, therefore, to avoid the suspicion that the President delayed action to see how the air assault on England would turn out. If the predictions of some of the American experts had been substantiated, England would have crumbled under the first onslaught. Now that there are more grounds for hope, however, the reasons for delaying action no longer exist.

Actions Speak Louder Than Words

Some months ago, on this page, a comparison between the words and the actions of Adolf Hitler was published. Numbers of friends have asked me to republish it, but unfortunately my records had been misplaced.

However, there came to hand this week a booklet put out by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Lo and behold, the same data I had misplaced is contained therein. So, at last, I can comply with the desires of the friends referred to and republish the indictment.

In reading this, then, all I ask is that you remember that old axiom, "Actions speak louder than words." It is true today, as always.

What He Said—What He Did.

Berlin, May 17, 1933. Hitler said, "The German people have no thought of invading any country."

Berlin, March 7, 1936. Hitler said, "We have no territorial demands to make in Europe."

Before the Reichstag, May 21, 1935. Hitler said, "Germany has neither the wish nor the intention to mix in internal Austrian affairs or annex or unite with Austria."

On March 11, 1938, Hitler, at the head of his troops, crossed the frontier to take possession of Austria.

Berlin, September 26, 1938. Hitler said, "We want to live our own life, and we want other peoples to do the same. . . . We have assured all our immediate neighbors of the integrity of their territory as far as German is concerned. That is no hollow phrase; it is our sacred will."

By the end of March, 1939, the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia had taken place.

At the Sportspalast, September 26, 1938. Hitler said, speaking of Poland, "We succeeded in arriving at an agreement which for the duration of ten years basically removes the danger of any clash. . . . We are two peoples. They shall live. One cannot annihilate the other."

Berlin, September 1, 1939. Hitler said, "I will not war against women and children. I have ordered my air force to restrict itself to attacks on military objectives."

Within a year German planes had rained death and destruction on the open cities and countryside of Poland.

Then Came Denmark.

Hitler signed a treaty with Denmark, in Berlin, on May 31, 1939. Article one of that pact read, "The German Reich and the Kingdom of Denmark will under no circumstances resort to war or any other form of violence against each other."

On April 9, 1940, Nazis entered Denmark and in less than twenty-four hours had captured that country.

At Berlin, on April 9, 1940, Hitler said, "In the spirit long existing of good German-Norwegian relations the Reich government notifies the Norwegian government that she has no intention, through her measures now or in the future, of infringing upon the territorial integrity or the political independence of the Kingdom of Norway."

On that same day, April 9, 1940, the Nazis invaded Norway.

Before the Reichstag, on January 30, 1937, Hitler said, "We are ready to acknowledge and guarantee these states (Holland and Belgium) at all times as inviolable neutral territory."

On May 10, 1940, Nazis invaded Belgium and Holland. In Rotterdam alone, an open, defenseless city, Nazi bombers killed 30,000 helpless civilians, wounded 70,000 more and left only three buildings standing over an area of two square miles.

On July 5, 1940, Hitler said, "Germany has no territorial possessions in the American continent and has given no occasion whatever for the assumption that she intends to acquire such possession."

And the action, in so far as the United States is concerned, can only be indicated by a question mark.

Still There Are Appeasers.

The most astounding thing about the gullibility of human nature is, perhaps, recent revelations that there are today, in the United States, otherwise intelligent people who would rest the entire safety of this country and its people on the word of Adolf Htiler. Lindbergh and the isolationists in the senate, with that record before them, still would risk the liberty of this nation on the bare pledge of Hitler.

If you hadn't heard it yourself, it would be inconceivable.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, August 28, 1915:

"After holding the street railway company at bay for forty-eight hours and keeping their cars off Grant street, the city of Atlanta was temporarily restrained yesterday from further interference with street car traffic."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, August 28, 1890:

"'Our next issue will be our last,' writes a Georgia editor. 'We are satisfied the people of this town can get along without us, for we have been getting along without the people for six months past. There are some subscriptions owing, but we will not collect them, as the citizens will soon need the money to defray the funeral expenses of the town.'"

Many See Hit Revived.

When Chu Chin Chow, which ran for 2,238 performances when first produced 24 years ago, was revived in London in July first-nighters of 1916 crowded the theater. One woman who had seen the first production 35 times said, "I may as well keep it up." I. Newmark, veteran first-nighter, had attended the first and the 2,000th performances. Robert Atkins, producer of the new show, had never seen the old.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Merchant Of Death NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—If you happen to know the name and address of a good, reliable merchant of death it would be deemed a favor to the people of the United States if you would communicate this information to the proper authorities in Washington without delay. You need not fear that you would be turning him over to the executioner, because all has been forgiven, and our government would roll out the red carpet all the way down to the Union station and strew his path with dewey petals. We don't want to kill the merchant of death these days. We want to kiss him and buy his merchandise.

The more diabolical and fatal the merchandise your friend has to sell and the more of it the happier we would be to make his acquaintance at this time, and we sincerely hope that he will let bygones be bygones and turn to with a hearty good will to build those war tools. It seems but yesterday that we, the people, were running a high and bitter indignation against those fiends in more or less human form who made money by turning out artillery and shells and ships, shoulder guns, machine guns, bombs and planes which were frankly intended for the taking of human life.

There was something sickening about the cold ingenuity of men who could actually build big factories where, under black banners tossed to the sky by smoking chimneys, they tinkered and petted the mechanisms of war, stretching the range and accuracy of guns or increasing the power of explosives, and we certainly let them know how we felt about them and their works. Did we pour it on them!

Now Hard To Find But they seem to have been more sensitive than we thought, because it now appears that our merchants of death took shame and died or turned to the manufacture of goods which cannot be relied on to kill except in respectable, if regrettable, traffic accidents on the highways. At any rate, they are hard to find at a moment when it is earnestly desired to buy large quantities of killing machines, and the deadlier the better.

Thus the present situation is one, at least, where it cannot be said that the war, if any, was deliberately promoted by the merchants of death so they could take vast and bloody profits from the suffering of the common man of all nations and his wife and children. On the contrary, the crisis, or emergency, has caught them out of training for their evil work and without plans, equipment or sufficient staffs of skilled and heartless mercenaries to go into production.

And such has been our change of heart that if the mysterious Ogres of Britain, Germany, France and Czecho-Slovakia were to offer to deliver to the United States in quick time an appreciable quantity of things designed to kill we would readily waive our old abhorrence of such monstrous men and do business with them on the nod.

Not the Bankers Nor will it seem reasonable this time to blame the war on the international bankers who were said to have caused the last big one and to have kept it going by some process that never was explained in any terms that the groping intelligence of the small people would understand.

They may have started and prolonged that one for profit, but this was started by three dictators who angrily proclaim their independence of the conventional financiers of the capitalist countries and vow that when they have finished their job money and profits, as bankers understand them, will be done. On the contrary, the international bankers were accused this time of trying to appease Hitler and his colleagues, Stalin and Mussolini, and, since appeasement failed, have been blamed for that, proving that the international banker is damned if he do and damned if he don't.

At home the financiers have been annoyingly bashful about teaming up with the merchants of death to buy new plants, and we are getting pretty impatient with them for refusing to unstrap their bankrolls. Their position is that war business is bad business, but the public position is that if men must risk their lives, then Wall Street should be compelled to finance the merchants of death in the production of things that can be relied on to kill.

It looks as though they will be forced to co-operate. We are not going to stand for any pacifistic slackerism on the part of the merchants of death or the big financial interests. In fact, we are more than half inclined to blame them for their failure to continue to turn out war stuff in time of peace, in spite of all we said about their brutal greed, in which case, of course, we would have said they deliberately caused the war.

The lamp burns in the window, and we hope they won't be empty-handed when they come home.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

STORY ON BONDS As I tried to say here last week, only downright misunderstanding or plain selfishness would cause any citizen to vote against the bond issue on September 4.

The bonds proposed will build new buildings at Grady hospital, at Battle Hill tuberculosis hospital, and also will build new schoolhouses.

Private funds are to become available, as soon as the bond issue is passed, to build a new hospital for Negro Grady.

School funds go to replace the shameful portables and other condemned buildings used for schools. Still another sum is to be used to replace a condemned fire hall, which will give to all citizens better service.

There ought to be no opposition. It is impossible in one bond issue to take care of all the needs. Atlanta has grown to a metropolitan city without keeping pace in her building. At Grady private sums will duplicate bond-issue sums and thereby meet the immediate needs at that hospital. The fire hall is for general use. In a letter or two some Negro citizens have complained the school funds were not equitably distributed. The sum asked for will do little more than begin to meet the needs of the school people.

I have given it much thought and believe it would be most unwise for any citizen to oppose the bond issue on the basis it does not meet all the needs. It is impossible to do everything, or the whole job, at once. New white and colored hospitals at Grady, a new fire station and money for new school buildings will constitute a very real advance for the whole city.

These bonds are painless, increasing no taxes, and they merit the support of the people.

GRADY STORY Not many Atlanta citizens know Grady hospital. The fact the hospital is a fire trap, of old wooden wings and blind courts, is ample reason to vote for new buildings. Only luck has prevented a fire, the horror of which would remain in the city's memory forever.

The very statistics of that huge wooden fire trap are as dramatic a story as could be read. The figures for 1939 show that Grady had, every day for the whole year, the following averages:

58 patients admitted each day.
10.8 births each day.
3.4 deaths each day.
483 patients in hospital each day.
17 major operations each day.
49 X-rays each day.
78.8 in emergency treatment rooms each day.
843 prescriptions filled each day.
538 lab tests made each day.
700 medical records "pulled" each day.
717 patients in clinics each day.
4,088 pounds of laundry each day.
3,823 meals each day. (The hospital operates 24 hours each day and many patients have diets requiring food every two hours.)

This is but a part of the story. These are but a few of the figures. They are average figures for the entire year, Sundays included. Try to visualize that year. Try to think of 58 new sick ones being admitted; of the families who wait each day during the 17 major operations; of the wards filled with sick and dying; of more than 10 mothers having babies each day.

The old wooden buildings, the pitiful lack of space, the every minute hazard of fire which would burn the helpless sick, those with operations, those with new babies.

It isn't a sob story. It is a story of humanity.

THOSE WHO WAIT There is another story. It is of those who wait. There are hundreds of them.

There are abdominal operations for the removal of tumors scheduled for as late as April, 1941. In other words, there are so many who need these operations there simply is not room for them before then. Each day there will be operations. Finally, by April, those booked this week will be reached.

Other operations are scheduled for as late as November of this year.

There are tonsil operations scheduled this week—for operation in 1941.

There are 101 patients on the waiting list at Battle Hill. They are infecting their families, their communities.

It is cheaper to prevent disease than to cure it. It is safer to cure it than to let it wait. Those who wait are dependents. Those who wait often infect others.

So, try to think of your job and mine—try to think of that hospital with tumors, tuberculosis, syphilis, broken bones, malnutrition, starving babies, sick children, bad tonsils, women with babies to be born, strep throats, and all the diseases about which so little is known—all come to Grady.

It is a good hospital. If one can get in one gets good treatment. The leading physicians and surgeons of the city work there. All the requirements of the American Medical Association are met.

Think it over. On September 4 go to the polls and vote yes for the bonds—all of them—for the schools, for Grady and for the new fire department building.

Atlanta needs them.

A Fable Concerning a Man Who Thought the Law Didn't Apply to Him

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In a certain land far away lived an ordinary citizen named Bill Jones, who believed in signs and omens and felt abused because he was poor and unimportant.

One day Bill paid two bits to have his fortune told, and the fortune teller said to him: "Aha! You have a wonderful power. Whoever does you a mean and dirty trick will suffer for it, and whoever is generous and kind to you will be rewarded."

Bill's capacity for belief was great, but he wasn't wholly convinced until he began to check up. And, sure enough, it happened as the fortune teller said. Every man who cheated, tricked or wronged Bill soon came to grief according to his deserts.

"Serves 'em right," said Bill. "But think of a plain guy like me having such power. They'd better watch their step now. I've been pushed around long enough. The next time a wise guy does me dirt, I'm going to put my curse on him right out loud so he'll know when bad luck hits him that I'm the cause of it."

Then Bill began to look for opportunities to use his strange power, and soon he was feeling wronged and placing his curse on people several times a day.

The result was awful. Bill lost all of his friends and developed a sour look that scared little children. Everybody avoided him, and before long he was jobless and broke. Then his conscience woke up and he went to see the town wise man.

"I have sinned," he confessed, "and I am being punished for it. I wickedly abused my power, and now I'm sorry. What can I do to be saved?"

The wise man heard his story and stared at him in unbelief. "Bill," said he, "I didn't know anybody could be so dumb. You have no power and you haven't hurt anybody."

"But," said Bill, "they—"

"Boloney!" said the wise man. "You saw what you looked for. Misfortune comes to all, but you had nothing to do with it. Bad things happen to mean and hateful men, and good things happen to kind and generous men, but that is only the working of a natural law. Like begets like."

"But if I didn't do it," said Bill, "why am I punished?"

"Some more of the same law," said the wise man. "You tried to be hateful, and it made you the kind of guy people despise. Poison ivy never has good luck."

'Fun Festival' Will Be Held at Piedmont Park

Summer Activities on Playgrounds To Close Tomorrow.

Summer activities on the city's supervised playgrounds will close tomorrow when boys and girls from playgrounds all over Atlanta gather on the athletic field at Piedmont park to take part in a "fun festival," a varied demonstration of all kinds of playground activities and grand climax to the summer season.

The festivities will begin at 2:30 o'clock with a sandlot baseball and diamond ball game, to be followed by exhibition games and matches in paddle tennis, horseshoes, box hockey, volleyball, newcomb and dodgeball. At 4 o'clock the smaller children will gather in one group for organized games while the older boys and girls will get together for relay races, singing games and folk dancing.

A band concert will be played by boys and girls from the music classes being taught at Joe Brown and Bass Junior High schools under the WPA music project. They will be assisted by members of the Atlanta civic orchestra and will be under the direction of Walter Sheets.

Community singing and a marionette show will also be featured, to be followed by the presentation of playground monograms to high point winners and leaders in the summer activity program.

Throughout the afternoon arts and craft projects which have been completed on the various playgrounds throughout the summer will be displayed.

Playgrounds expected to be represented include: Adair Park, Mozley Park, Joe E. Brown, Morningside, Bessie Branham, Calhoun, Georgia Avenue, Bass, Maddox Park, Forrest Avenue, Goldsmith, J. Allen Couch, Moreland, James L. Key, McClatchey Park, E. P. Howell, Longino, Center Hill and other groups.

Hartsfield, Sutton Flunk Brisk Quiz

Mayor Hartsfield and Superintendent of Schools Willis A. Sutton sat wide-eyed and heard themselves make speeches advocating a balanced budget, cornbread-and-potlicker, and traffic improvements yesterday at a session of school principals, Parent-Teacher Association heads and other guests.

Records—that was the answer.

Both of them, with other officials, including Thomas W. Clift, system business manager, and Miss Allie Mann, former president of the teachers' associations, were given a brisk quiz by Assistant Superintendent M. E. Coleman—and flunked.

It was a field day, with a revanche motif, and everybody enjoyed it except the victims. They smiled, however, and took it.

Schools open officially September 9.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Ralph Smith who is secretary of the Eighth District Democratic Executive Committee is W. Ralph Smith, he wants you to know, and not the Ralph Smith he said was organizing Willkie clubs hereabouts. There are many Ralph Smiths around Brunswick, he added.

U. S. Launches Official Listing Of Aliens Here

For Third Time Foreigners Are Fingerprinted and Registered.

By WILLARD COPE.

The aliens began doing it all over again yesterday—this time for Uncle Sam.

Early in the summer they had to make their way out to the state patrol headquarters, under an order of Governor Rivers, and answer a list of questions and submit to fingerprinting.

A little later, Atlanta's own alert constabulary, hearing through Mayor Hartsfield that a war was on, inaugurated a like procedure.

Both of those efforts were gratuitous, but yesterday's inauguration of registration and fingerprinting was official and required by federal statute under penalty of $1,000 fine and six months' imprisonment. The government was not fooling.

Few Callers.

There were very few callers the first day. All of the city's 2,000 noncitizens are expected to comply long before the offices at 72 Fairlie street in back of the old post office close December 26.

One of the first to appear, with his smiling wife—of the Girls' High school class of 1926—was the faithful Leonid Skvirsky. He went through the routine pleasantly.

Mrs. Skvirsky, a striking blue-eyed blonde, who met and married the Lithuanian cameraman while dancing in Shanghai, came along as usual. Nowadays the American-born wife of an alien doesn't lose her citizenship, but the young spouse went through the whole procedure when he was registered by the state police and insisted on accompanying him to subsequent registrations.

Just To Be Sure.

A man who had lived in America and Atlanta since 1888—and had been told he was a citizen because he came here before he was 16, also was among those recorded.

He was John Scheer, downtown jeweler, a native of Poland, and father of two sons who not only are American citizens but veterans of the first World War, the eldest a captain in the Army Reserve.

"I came down just to be sure about it," he said, while a post office attache, under the guidance of Captain Ben W. Seabrook, of the Police Identification Bureau, pressed his fingertips expertly to the card. "I feel I'm as good an American as anybody, and I want to obey the law."

Loaded In Truck.

"They took all of us first paper men in a truck to the courthouse one day," he related. "We went through various formalities for seven hours. Then they loaded us back in the truck and sent us to our outfits. They told us we were now all citizens.

"Nobody ever sent us any papers or anything, and I'm just not sure of my status. So I came on down to sign up and be certain."

Postmaster Lon Livingston took a personal interest in the proceedings. The work was under the immediate supervision of C. G. Clark, assistant superintendent of mails, and Assistant Postmaster Frank Fraser, with Inspector Clyde Fleming rallying around to give expert aid where needed.

Fleming, Fraser and Clark whiled away some of the time between clients talking over the good old days back in 1906 when Fleming still had hair and all three were just starting out in Uncle Sam's service.

Livingston said every registrant would be given the limit of assistance in complying with the law. While the office is primarily for the Atlanta region, any alien who happens to be in town can register there.

THREE TIMES AND IN!—Mrs. Leonid Skvirsky, blond, blue-eyed native Atlanta "alien," prepares her shapely fingers for a third workout as she goes voluntarily with husband to register with Uncle Sam. Previously they had been fingerprinted and tabulated, first by the state and then by the city police.

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

Of the dozen friends I have buried in as many days, seven of them died of heart ailment, which I judge is typical of the average of deaths. Study any list of adult deaths and you will be impressed, perhaps amazed, at the large percentage of them attributed to heart ailments. The pump suddenly quits working, and the stream of life quits flowing.

"No engine ever invented by the skill of man is as efficient as the human heart," says Dr. J. E. Gwatkin. "It is the most wonderful machine in the world. It pumps the blood to every part of the body over and over again as long as life lasts," he continues.

The average heart pumps four ounces of blood every beat. It beats an average of 70 times per minute, which means 17 1-2 pounds per minute, 1,050 pounds per hour, 25,211 pounds per day. That is a lot of work, and work which must be done with such precision as to startle human calculation.

I have frequently talked with doctors about the increase of death from heart ailments, and they will all tell you that this increase is largely due to the tension under which we are living, plus various forms of dissipation in our modern age of luxury and intemperance.

I have adopted the plan of going to my doctor for a check up every three months. I used to go once a year. I then moved up to twice a year. Now I go regularly four times a year. That doesn't mean that I have solved the problem of trying to husband my physical strength, but it does mean that I am trying to follow my doctor's instructions in that direction. It is worth a great deal to know that your doctor is aware of your physical tendencies. I often hear people say that they are afraid to go to their doctor for fear he will find something wrong with them. He likely will find it too late to do such persons much good when they finally break completely down, and then call him in.

But back to the heart. What can we do to help the heart in its great function? We cast rest it by resting our bodies as much as possible. Don't stand up when you can sit down. Don't sit down when you can lie down. Try to lie down at least 15 minutes in the middle of the day. And when you lie down, relax. Unbutton your collar and belt and shoes. Take a few long breaths—belly breaths, as Dr. Brady says. Whether you take a nap or not, you will rest. It will give your heart a distinct rest. And those of us who are over 40 had just as well remember that our hearts are not as new as they were when we were 20. Thy will keep on pumping just as long as they can. We can definitely help them, if we will.

Whisky Is Seized, Three Being Held

Three persons were being held by DeKalb county police in connection with the seizure of 75 gallons of non-tax paid whisky which Officers V. B. Hill and T. W. Austin reported they found in a car they halted yesterday on the Old Stone Mountain road near Scottsboro.

In custody were Mrs. Sallie Fields, 53, of Stone Mountain; her 15-year-old son, Roger Fields, and H. L. Plummer, 40, of East Howard street in Decatur.

Officers Hill and Austin listed Plummer as the driver of the car. The whisky was destroyed and the car confiscated.

Parole Is Granted To Mack Kirkland

Mack Kirkland, who at 26 years of age has been convicted of 12 charges of robbery and auto theft, was granted a parole yesterday by the State Prison and Parole Commission, the Fulton superior court was notified.

It was the second time he has received clemency, the first being a full pardon from the Governor in 1935 while he was serving a one to three year sentence for auto theft in 1934. In October of 1936 he was sentenced to serve from 8 to 15 years upon conviction of eight robberies and three additional auto theft charges. The parole states he is to be employed by J. B. BENNING ANNOUNCES CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS

FORT BENNING, Ga., Aug. 27. The quartermaster's office at Fort Benning has announced three new projects whose combined cost will amount to $57,792.50.

Colonel James R. Alfonte, quartermaster, says work will begin immediately on a $24,500 cantonment construction project for housing the 71st Engineer Company, an enlargement of the Ordnance Shop at a cost of $16,792.50, and an addition to Lawson Field hangars, for which $16,500 has been provided.

The 71st Engineer project will provide shelter and accommodations for 165 men and their equipment in the eight buildings, three barracks, one mess hall, a day room, a storehouse, a motor shed for 30 vehicles and an administration building.

The permanently constructed Ordnance Shop building will be greatly enlarged, adding space that has been needed since the expansion of activities there.

The Lawson Field project provides for enclosing space between the two main hangars. This will increase the office space available and will give more room for the mechanical shops.

Technical Sergeant John L. Biggerstaff, 29th Infantry, has been transferred to Headquarters and Military Police Company, Ninth Division, Fort Bragg, N. C., where he will become a master sergeant.

Sergeant Biggerstaff enlisted at Fort Benning in 1926, and was assigned to the Service Company, 29th Infantry. He had already served with the United States Marine Corps, from 1922 to 1925. Lieutenant Colonel John C. P. Bartholf, commanding officer of the Third Battalion of the 29th Infantry, will become professor of military science and tactics at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.

Colonel Bartholf arrived at Fort Benning last summer from Syracuse, N. Y., where he had been on duty as a National Guard instructor.

Tobacco Quota Set by Wallace For 1941-1942

Three-Year Plan Favored by 86.1 Per Cent of Farmers Voting.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP) Secretary Wallace proclaimed today flue-cured marketing quotas for the first of three years beginning July 1, 1941, after officially determining that 86.1 per cent of the growers voting in a referendum favored a long-range program.

Wallace set the quota for 1941-42 at 618,000,000 pounds, or 10 per cent more than the quota of 556,000,000 which had been proclaimed before the referendum.

The secretary explained the long range program made it possible to spread the adjustment needed to eliminate excess supplies, and thus the 1941-42 quota need not be so small.

The quota for the 1942-43 marketing year will be announced sometime between July 1 and December 1, 1941, and the quota for 1943-44 between July 1 and December 1, 1942.

Wallace said the official canvass of the vote showed 174,779 of the 203,059 farmers voting favored the three-year proposal.

Willkie Needs To Win Voters In Low, Middle Income Groups

Roosevelt's Weak Point Is in Higher Salary Division, Poll Says; He Also Led in Smaller Money Bracket During Other Campaigns.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 27.—One of Wendell Willkie's chief problems in attempting to defeat President Roosevelt—perhaps his most important single problem—is revealed in a survey of public opinion by the Institute. It is a problem which Willkie's two predecessors in the Republican party, Herbert Hoover and Alfred M. Landon, each had to face but could not solve when they ran against Roosevelt.

Willkie's problem is how to win more voters in the lower and middle income levels—the people who belong to the "white collar class", and those who, to use the vernacular, live on the other side of the railroad tracks.

The Gallup Poll

* * * *

Conversely, President Roosevelt's problem is how to increase his strength with the upper and middle income groups.

No student of politics can pretend to understand the campaign without full knowledge of the sharp division of sentiment which has sprung up in American politics along class lines. It is clearly revealed in the following results of the Institute poll:

	For Roosevelt	For Willkie
Upper Income Group	29%	71%
Middle Income Group	47	53
Lower Income Group	66	34
On Relief	75	25

It can be seen that Willkie is the two-to-one favorite of the upper income group and Roosevelt the two-to-one favorite of the lower income group, including those voters on relief. In the middle bracket, sentiment is fairly evenly divided, with Willkie enjoying a slight advantage today. This middle income level holds the balance of power. Whichever candidate wins the lion's share of the middle vote, while holding his advantage elsewhere, will win the election.

The middle income group is important for still another reason. It is the largest group, numerically, in the voting population. The Institute's estimates of the income division of the voting population are shown below. These estimates apply not to the whole population, but merely to that part of the population which actually can vote.

* * * *

Despite the overwhelming opposition of the upper income group, Roosevelt was able to win in 1936 by a landslide because he carried the major share of the middle income vote. Only if Willkie can achieve what Landon could not achieve, and keep Roosevelt from repeating his 1936 performance in respect to the middle group, can he put himself in office.

Attacks Center On Talmadge In Campaign

Nix Scores Ex-Governor in Speech at Crawfordville.

By LUKE GREENE.

Gubernatorial attacks yesterday centered on Eugene Talmadge as Abit Nix charged that the former governor turned against the rural communities when he was in office and Gordon S. Chapman, campaign manager for Columbus Roberts, denounced Talmadge charges of an alleged Roberts "slush fund," while the red-galused candidate himself centered his fire on the State Highway Department.

In a speech at Crawfordville, Nix declared, "despite pretensions that he is the farmer's friend, his four-year administration produced nothing of value to the rural communities.

In the face of such a record against the little counties, it is little wonder that the Democratic voters in those communiies are determined to vote against Talmade September 11," he added.

Chapman's Statement.

Chapman said in his statement concerning the alleged "slush fund":

"The Talmadge attack at this time is obviously an effort to lay a smoke screen over the large sums his backers are now turning loose in every county which they consider the least bit doubtful.

"The entire resources of the backers of the Willkie campaign and the old Liberty League crowd which financed his 'grass roots' enterprise are still open to Talmadge in this campaign. They want to put Talmadge over in Georgia so they can claim during the national campaign that 'Georgia has repudiated Roosevelt' by electing his bitterest enemy in Georiga."

Talmadge Speakers.

Talmadge spoke yesterday in Jefferson, declaring if he were elected Governor he was going to put the Highway Department doing the job it was created to do. Speaking of this department, he said:

"They have added to many engineers, too many linemen, too many supervisors and clerks to eat up the money, and no results are shown. When I was Governor, you never saw any editorials condemning any state department for paying a $17,000 commission to political friends on a $16,000 job. They had better get through with this kind of business before I get back over there, and they'd better cover up their tracks."

Talmadge said two of the candidates had "flown the coop" but expressed the hope the "others will stay in and help us campaign."

Replies to Miller.

Speaking yesterday afternoon at Valdosta, Roberts replied to a reported call from W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board. Roberts said:

"Through my campaign headquarters in Atlanta, I am informed that W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, called to say that the deal by which state funds, materials and labor were used in building a dwelling in Dawson county on property owned by a highway official, occurred while he was being held out of office by militiamen.

"I am glad to know this because it further emphasizes the need of reorganizing the State Highway Department along the lines I am advocating in my campaign for governor, so as to put that department on a business-like basis and protect members against ouster by military force."

Women To Meet.

Meanwhile, a group of women from the fifth congressional district prepared to meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Ansley roof to hear Columbus Roberts. Mrs. B. M. Boykin, fifth district chairman for the state-wide women's division of the Roberts - for - Governor Committee, will preside. Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, of Atlanta, will introduce the candidate, and Mrs. J. A. Rollison, women's division chairman, will outline the work of the Roberts campaign.

Dates for other congressional district rallies are third district at Perry Thursday; eighth district at Baxley Saturday, and seventh district at Rome Saturday, September 7.

Five educators will speak from 7 to 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in behalf of the re-election of Dr. M. D. Collins as state school superintendent. They are Knox Walker, assistant superintendent of Fulton county schools; Mrs. Walter McMichael, superintendent of Randolph county schools; C. J. Cheeves, Gainesville superintendent; J. M. Starr, Coweta county school superintendent, and Mrs. Joe Matthews, Paulding county school superintendent.

Greater Use Of Food Stamp Plan Predicted

More Clients Will Employ It Next Month, Mays Believes.

Prediction that more relief clients will make use of the federal food stamp plan next month when they become better acquainted with its advantages was made yesterday by Henry Mays Jr., director of the Fulton County Public Welfare Department.

His statement came after publication of figures showing that hundreds of general relief clients have failed to participate in the plan during its first month of operation in Fulton county and as a result only approximately $34,000 worth of free blue stamps have been given away and only $28,000 worth of orange stamps sold. It had been expected the total would be at least $175,000 a month.

"If the relief load has actually decreased in Fulton county, no one would be happier about it than I" said Mays. "But I do not think it has been decreased. The need is still great.

"In the food stamp plan figures showing that 5,122 general relief cases were expected and only 2,847 were certified by us, it would seem there has been a drop. Actually, the only figure on general relief cases I have furnished the federal officials was that in March we had 2,561 cases representing 6,276 persons. Many of our cases, totaling more than 1,000, are of lone persons who are not householders and therefore not eligible for food stamps," he declared.

"As for the difference between expected WPA cases and WPA persons awaiting assignment and those actually certified, all I can say is that the figures were furnished this departmnet by the state WPA office. I am informed that many persons awaiting WPA assignment have gotten private employment and many do not wish to participate in the plan," said Mays.

"Relief loads vary and I hope that ours will decrease until there are no persons needing relief.

"However, I am certain that more of our clients will participate in the plan next month when they are thoroughly familiar with its working."

Miss Smith Becomes Bride Of Mr. Wagnon at Church

Wearing a handsome gown of ivory satin fashioned with a rose-point lace collar, Miss Margaret Linton Smith became the bride of George Noble Wagnon last evening at the Cathedral of St. Philip. Bishop H. J. Mikell assisted by Dean Raimundo de Ovies, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of friends and relatives of the popular couple.

Tom Brumby, organist, presented a musical program. Gracing the altar were urns containing Easter lilies placed against a background of stately palms and ferns. Adorning the walls of the church were candelabra holding gleaming white tapers and cathedral candelabra holding tapers were placed at the chancel.

Ushers were Bill Lyon, Fred Kyle, Rev. James Duncan, and Charles Ackerman. The groomsmen were Marcus Mashburn, Sam Ratliff, William Steele, and Edward Childs. Dr. George Henry Noble was best man for Mr. Wagnon.

Miss Susan Smith was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a beautiful emerald green taffeta gown of colonial period topped with a fitted jacket which was fashioned with long sleeves edged with lace. She wore a Schiaparelli hat of matching taffeta trimmed with pale yellow ribbon. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and tube roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Mildred Wagnon, sister of the groom, Kathleen Duncan, Jean Dennison, and Loraine Smith, sister of the bride. They wore gowns styled like that of the maid of honor and Lily Dache bonnets trimmed with yellow ribbon streamers. They carried cascade bouquets of garden flowers.

Dr. Linton Smith gave his beautiful daughter in marriage. For her wedding the bride wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a snug-fitting bodice and a bouffant skirt extending to form a train. Outlining the lace appliqued net yoke and rose point lace collar were oriental pearls brought from the orient by Captain C. D. Smith. Her veil of illusion tulle fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, which was worn by Mrs. James Love, the bride's cousin, the former Miss Elise Longino, at her marriage last week. She wore for her only ornament a gold cross, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Smith, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception at the East Lake Country Club for members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests, and a few close friends of the couple. Mrs. Smith received her guests wearing an exquisite model of delphinium blue chiffon and a matching turban. Her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake and placed at intervals were silver bowls containing artistic arrangements of white flowers. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames F. Schilling, Mimma Miller Hamilton, Bradford Hodges, Misses Martha Dunn, Ethelyn Dyar, Frances Spratlin and Sarah Rainey.

The bride donned for her wedding trip a smart dress of catawba crepe styled with a draped waistline. She wore an oatmeal tweed coat and dark brown accessories. Gracing her shoulder was a spray of purple orchids. Upon the couple's return they will reside at Emory Court apartments at 2080 North Decatur road.

Among out-of-town guests present were Mrs. L. C. Elkins, Dr. and Mrs. Carl T. Elkins, of St. Augustine, Fla.; Miss Annie Noble, Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. W. E. Barker, Marion Ala.; Mrs. C. D. Smith, of Shanghai, China.

Miss Byrnes Feted By Miss Walker.

Invited were Misses Carolyn Malone, Barbara Settle, Alma Wilby, and her guest, Miss Patricia Jenkins, of Seattle, Wash.; Alberta Bell, Betty Taylor, Miriam Rudisal, Mrs. Frank Gaither and the hostess and honor guest.

Parties Planned For Miss Zachry

Miss Virginia Zachry, popular bride-elect, continues to be honored at parties prior to her marriage to George Smith, which will be an important event of next month.

Today Miss Charlotte Galbraith entertains at a swimming party at the Atlanta Woman's Club for Miss Zachry and has invited a limited number of the younger set.

On September 7 Dr. and Mrs. George Williams will be host at a tea-dance at the Henry Grady hotel for Miss Zachry and Mr. Smith, the guests to be limited to members of the bridal party.

Miss Betty DuBose entertains on September 9 for Miss Zachry, the date and nature of the affair to be announced later.

Nutritional Deficiency Will Cause Allergy

By Dr. William Brady.

In the eight-page pamphlet, "The Calcium Shortage" (ask for copy and inclose stamped envelope bearing your address) I mention, among conditions which seem to be caused by calcium shortage and which respond well to calcium feeding, hay fever, bronchial asthma, hyperesthetic rhinitis, rhinorrhea (watering at the nose for no apparent reason, just cussedness), recurring hives, angioneurotic edema (giant hives), tetany, periodic sick headache (migraine), ordinary so-called neuralgic headaches, moist or weeping eczema, recurring chilblains, delayed clotting of blood, hypersensitivity or undue excitability of nerve fibers and nerve centers. Along with the calcium, whether you get it in food, medicine or water, of course you need enough vitamin D, whether you get it in food, medicine or from the action of direct sunlight on your bare skin, to insure assimilation and utilization of the calcium.

Then I have another pamphlet "Relief for Allergy," which tells all I know about the use of potassium chloride. If you mention it, a copy of this will be included with the calcium pamphlet with my best wishes—provided you have not omitted the indispensable stamped addressed envelope.

A reader gives a good idea of the way potassium chloride works:

"I sing and speak, but due to a bad throat 'infection' it seemed I would have to give up this work. The 'infection' was getting worse. Every morning my throat was choked up with thick stuff that almost strangled me. I had been skin-tested for allergies following a round of giant hives, but no one ever suggested that the throat condition was allergic. I had had a course of autogenous vaccine for the throat trouble, with no apparent benefit. Imagine my joy when, after the first few doses of potassium chloride soluble I awakened with a clear throat! Now I'm singing more and carrying lead roles and using my throat in other ways more than ever and have no trouble at all to speak of. My allergy proved to be for cottonseed oil and one gets that so often nowadays when eating out. I now carry along two five-grain tablets of potassium chloride soluble and drop them in my glass of water, drink it and go my way rejoicing. I shall always be grateful to you for this suggestion."

Calcium feeding to correct the nutritional deficiency responsible for allergy. Potassium chloride merely to relieve, or perhaps to prevent the manifestation of allergy.

Physiologists say potassium chloride acts somewhat as adrenalin does in the system. All I know is that a dose now and then can do no harm in any circumstance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Something to Brag About.

I am past 72, and while not bragging, I am in better health than most men ten years my junior. I enjoy plain wheat (cooked) in place of fancy "breakfast foods" every day, and I eat also half a dozen of the B-complex and D tablets you suggested. (R. S. H.)

Answer—Millions of people of your age would enjoy better health if they ate plain wheat daily instead of refined flour products. On request, accompanied with stamped envelope bearing your address, I am glad to send monograph, "Wheat to Eat," which tells how to use plain wheat in the every-day dietary.

Easy to Take.

How in the world can a person take 100,000 units of vitamin A or 200,000 units of vitamin D in a day, as you have suggested on various occasions? (Mrs. T. S. A.)

Answer—It is easy enough to swallow four little capsules of vitamin A, each containing 25,000 units, or four capsules of vitamin D, each containing 50,000 units—the whole works would make one good swallow. Or take two after breakfast, two after supper.

MY DAY: Pictures Shown Of President's Trip

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—We flew to Washington last night in the rain, but the trip was smooth. I found that the weather plus an important conference had brought my husband back early in the afternoon from his trip on the Potomac, so Governor and Mrs. Maybank, of South Carolina, who were with him, stayed with us for dinner and the night. After dinner we were shown some delightful movies taken of the President's trip last February. Every time I see pictures taken of the canal, I promise myself that before another year goes by to see that engineering marvel for myself.

The little Girl Scout from Panama, who was so pretty in her exquisitely hand-embroidered native costume, told me at the camp the other day a good deal about her country and I was impressed by her excellent English. No one would have thought that it was not her native tongue. I wonder how soon our young people will be surprising natives of South American countries by speaking Spanish as well as the South Americans do English.

I hear most encouraging reports of the National Youth Orchestra's trip in South America under Mr. Stokowski, and am looking forward to hearing them on their first program on their return to the United States.

We also saw a number of the latest newsreels last night and, among others, part of Ambassador Bullitt's speech in Philadelphia. This was interesting to me, because speaking for the newsreels is something which requires a good deal of experience. I felt that, in this particular one, the depth of his feelings carried his message in a way which had not been achieved by his written words. I had read it in the newspapers and had been interested, but had missed the force of conviction which went with his delivery and was very glad to hear him last night.

The President began his day this morning with an important conference at 9 and apparently there is not one minute during the rest of the day which will be free. I realize that, in these summer months, when he goes to the country occasionally, there is more crowded into the days which are spent in Washington, but the days in Hyde Park seem to me as busy as they can be.

I wonder if, for everyone in congress and in the administration, the pressure of work is so very heavy because so many different activities must be co-ordinated and dovetailed. Ordinarily, each person would go on with his own job, regardless of what others do, but at present everything seems to bear on what is being done somewhere else. This is even truer of our relations with the rest of the world. I feel that there must be an increasing sense of burden for the leaders of congress and the heads of the administration.

I am now going to a meeting called by Mr. Aubrey Williams on National Youth Administration activities. Later this afternoon Miss Thompson and I shall return to New York City.

Too Much Lounging, Eating Ruin Lines of Your Figure

By Ida Jean Kain.

There's a popular notion that going without your girdle in the summer is the ruination of your figure—but, believe me, it's the subversive combination of lounging around and eating that does the damage.

Girdle or not, it's keeping your muscles in tone and exercising reasonable restraint at the table that holds your figure in check. Relax caution too much and no amount of lacing will do more than make you look well corseted!

There's a limit to waistlineage if you are to appear smart in dress-up clothes. An old rule allows you 25 inches of waist for five feet of height with an extra half-inch of waist for each additional inch of height. But with the current trend in figures this allowance is a whit liberal. A much better rule is scaled to your structure: The waistline should be around eight inches less than the normal bust circumference. This proportion is lovely, provided weight is normal.

Lie on the back on the floor, legs straight down, arms stretched up on floor overhead. Now, the idea is to arc the body sideward while keeping arms, shoulders, buttocks and legs on the floor. Work the arms and legs around to the side to form a semi-circle. Relax and repeat the arc to the other side. Continue for eight counts. This is a good stiff exercise and one that will take you down by inches.

Still on the back on the floor, raise the legs straight up in the air to right angles with trunk. Now, shuttle legs, knees straight, back and forth eight times. This exercise gets one set of abdominal muscles—to get the other set, flex the knees and hold feet off the floor as you lie on your back. The exercise is to separate the knees as wide as possible, then bring them together. Perform 12 counts.

The third exercise slims the waist, tummy and hips. Lie on the back on the floor with the legs stretched straight down and hands clasped back of head with elbows on the floor. Flex the right knee and twist at the waist to touch the kneecap to the floor on the far side of the left leg. Try to keep the elbows on the floor, the tummy muscles pulled up and in. Repeat with other leg, alternating for 15 counts.

A Slim Illusion

By Lillian Mae.

Women "in the know" of fashion realize that a combination of uncluttered lines and subtly slimming details spell distinction. A point beautifully expressed by Lillian Mae in Pattern 4340. There are tall-and-slim lines in the smart skirt which is in gored style. What an enchanting and unexpected curve the front neckline makes—so becoming! Generous tucks at the shoulders and above the waistline keep softness in through the bustline. Have the sleeves short or, if you prefer, make the three-quarter sleeves with their bow-tying bands for decorative effect. This simple, distinguished frock comes in evening length too.

Pattern 4340 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 4 5-8 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Three cheers for the Lillian Mae fall and winter pattern book—just off the press! It's right in key with the American spirit of freedom and individuality. Book 15 cents.

Hollywood's 'Dumb Blonde' Isn't So Dumb After All

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—You can't keep a dumb blonde down—particularly when she isn't dumb. I refer to Marie Wilson, who was given the big Hollywood brush-off. And is now back large as life with a big part in "Virginia." I saw Marie in the Paramount comissary, looking very happy and glad to be here.

"My kind of comedy wasn't right for pictures," she tells me, "I've changed it. I've learned a lot of tricks in vaudeville (in which Marie did three shows a day for 20 weeks). I used to overact in my pictures—that's why I failed. I saw some of the oldies I made, and they were terrible."

Marie has a final request. "Please," she begs, "forget all about my eyelashes." Remember she used to be publicized as the girl with the longest eyelashes in Hollywood?

Katharine Hepburn and Marlene Dietrich made a good foil for each other at the El Capitan theater the other night. Katie had no make-up on her face, was tanned and freckled. Marlene was made-up to the nines—with an overdose of white powder that made her look like a ghost. . . . By the way, passing Elsa Maxwell's dressing room at the theater, I saw a six-foot horseshoe of red roses with "Elsa" splashed across the top in white roses. I have an idea they were the gift of Noel Coward. Funny thing about this El Capitan stage presentation—the people who forget their lines are the most experienced, like Roland Young and Herbert Marshall, and those who come through with flying colors are the young ones, like Joan Fontaine, who not only looked beautiful, but acted ditto.

Miss Fontaine, incidentally, has practically spent the $11,000 she received for "Rebecca." It went on her operation and the redecorating of her house. Joan is independent and does not believe in spending her husband's money when she can spend her own. Her boss, Mr. Selznick, now wants her to do a picture with Ronald Colmon. Most girls would faint with joy at the opportunity. But not Joan, who insists she must first see the script before signing for the picture. She's either being very smart or very foolish.

I bumped into Melvyn Douglas at Metro and asked him, "What's all this about you and the Dies Committee and Communism?" Here is Melvyn's reply, "I sent a wire to Martin Dies asking him to investigate me. I'm so tired of being charged with Communism. I'm not a Communist, and I never have been a Communist. I am a liberal, which is something else. Well, anyway," he concludes, "Dies says he does not want to investigate me. So that's that"—he hopes.

The "Captain Hornblower" picture, originally scheduled for a technicolor, two million budget, has been cut to one million and black and white. It is not yet certain whether Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh will make it before their Lord Nelson-Lady Hamilton Opus for Korda. It depends on which script is ready first. But this is certain—their marriage will take place very shortly and very quietly.

When Connie Bennett went to Columbia for her current picture, she told the publicity boys, "Of course, I'll see people, but I do have definite likes and dislikes." Something tells me my name was mentioned! . . . George Brent has brought Ann Sheridan a cute $1,200 swimming pool—according to the Warners' press department. I'll have to see it to believe it. . . . The "Dead End" kids were behaving so tamely that they were ordered to get tough for their assignment at Universal, "Give Us Wings." I guess they took the title too literally.

This could happen only in Hollywood. Many years ago, when Jack Mulhall was earning $4,000 a week, his agent was Edward Small, whose 10 per cent on Mulhall's earnings brought him $400 a week. A few days ago Mulhall signed for a "bit" part for Producer Small at $200 for one week of work. And Jack was very glad to get it—the money and the work.

George Montgomery, ex-cowboy, was going into Ciro's with Mary Beth Hughes. "Good evening, Mr. Montgomery," said the door man. When George came out, he was surrounded by fans, who begged, "Your autograph, Mr. Montgomery. And was it dangerous in France, Mr. Montgomery?"

"Did you tell them you were not Robert Montgomery?" I ask George.

"No," I was too scared. I just signed my name—and ran away!"

Frankfurters With Potato Salad Will Please the Entire Family

By Sally Saver.

For outdoor meals frankfurters are high in popularity. But they are equally acceptable for indoor meals, buffets, quick suppers and many other occasions. With sauerkraut, potato salad, spoon bread, with or without tomato or barbecue sauce, these versatile sausages fill many a menu need with no strain on the food budget. Frankfurters of good quality have fine food value and, since they are partly cooked in the smoking process, they need little last-minute preparation to make them wholesomely edible.

Next weekend will provide for many the last picnic of the season, and whether the picnic is held in park, woods, or in the backyard garden, frankfurters will be on most picnic lists. Here are some things to do with them indoors or out.

Frankfurters With Hot Potato Salad.

Hot Dressing for Potato Salad.

1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1-2 teaspoon sugar
1-2 teaspoon flour
1-2 cup water
1-2 cup vinegar
1 egg
1-4 pound bacon
1 onion

Combine the salt, pepper, mustard, sugar and flour. Add water and vinegar and slightly beaten egg. Dice bacon and fry until light brown. Add grated onion and cook until tender. Combine two mixtures. Cook potatoes in skins, peel while hot and cut into dice. Add hot dressing to potatoes and if salad needs a bit more moistening add a little hot water.

Stuffed Frankfurters.

Prepared mustard.
1-2 cup grated American cheese
2 cups mashed potatoes
1-2 pound bacon
6 slices tomatoes
Buttered crumbs

Partially split frankfurters lengthwise and spread lightly with mustard. Add cheese to the mashed potatoes and fill the frankfurters with this mixture. Place on broiler rack with tomatoes and bacon which have been sprinkled with buttered crumbs. Set about 4 inches from source of heat and broil until the bacon is cooked, frankfurters heated and potatoes and tomatoes browned. This makes a good meal-in-one picnic supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson Plan Golden Wedding Celebration

• • • THOSE PROMINENT and beloved Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Patterson, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on September 3, when they will be showered with felicitations from their relatives and numerous friends. This auspicious event will be celebrated at a buffet supper to be given at 6:30 o'clock that evening at the home of the couple's son and daughter, Glenn and Ann Patterson Ryman, and their young granddaughter, Glenn Ryman, on Habersham road. Gathered for the occasion will be 40 members of the honor guests' family and their pastor, Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, and Mrs. Flinn.

Present for the celebration will be Mr. and Mrs. Patterson's sons, their wives and children, including Mr. and Mrs. Joe Patterson, of Lexington, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Asa Patterson and daughter, Mary Ann, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson Jr., also of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Patterson and daughter, Ann, of Columbus.

Other members of the family who will come from out-of-town for the event are Mr. Patterson's sister, Miss Mollie Patterson, of Wilmore, Ky.; his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cam Patterson, of Wilmore and Douglas, Ga.; his sister-in-law, Mrs. John C. Patterson, of Shelbyville, Ky.; Mrs. Patterson's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Will Tremere, of Wilmore, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Riley, of Lexington, Ky.

While here Mr. and Mrs. Tremere will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woolford at their home on Ponce de Leon. Mrs. Woolford is a niece of Mrs. Patterson and Mr. Tremere was one of the latter's four nephews who were attendants in her wedding.

Mrs. Patterson is the former Miss Pauline Frazer, a noted Kentucky belle. Mr. Patterson is also a native of Kentucky, having been born and reared in Wilmore, which bears the name of his grandfather. The couple's marriage was an important social event of September 3, 1890, and took place at the bride's home in Franklin, Ky.

They made their home in Americus, Ga., for a short period following their marriage, and in 1903 came to Atlanta for residence. Since coming here they have endeared themselves to a wide circle of friends and have played a prominent part in the city's social, civic and religious life, being devout members of the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

• • • TWO POPULAR Marietta brides-elect will carry out the tradition of "something old, something new, etc.," at their wedding. One of these is Frances Cheney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Percival Cheney, whose marriage to Gilbert Hillhouse Boggs Jr. takes place today.

Frances will carry an exquisite lace handkerchief for the "something old." It was made for her mother 40 years ago by the late Mrs. W. S. N. Neal and was used by Mrs. Cheney at her wedding.

The other is Mary Nell Clotfelter, who will become the bride of John Franklin, of Newark, N. J., on September 4. Incidentally, she has not seen her fiance for 13 months! They are excellent correspondents, however.

Mary Nell will wear the wedding gown worn by the former Patricia Howard, of Adairsville, when she became the bride of Sidney Clotfelter. She also will wear a string of lustrous pearls which formerly belonged to Mrs. Ben Noble Jr., who was Helen June Roberts prior to her marriage.

Elizabeth Fowler, who will act as Mary Nell's maid of honor at the nuptials, had a clever idea when she had a good luck silver piece made for the bride-elect to wear in her slipper on her wedding day. Even more clever is the fact that the donor had the bridal couple's initials engraved upon the coin!

• • • SOMETHING NEW in the way of decorations featured the luncheon given Saturday by Elizabeth Rauschenberg, who entertained at her home in Dalton for that popular bride-elect, Virginia Zachry. In the dining room, the clever hostess arranged the long buffet as an altar, banked with the traditional greenery, white flowers, and candelabra, and to complete the bridal ensemble Elizabeth had arranged a miniature doll, dressed in a wedding gown of satin and tulle and carrying rosebuds. To add to the realistic appearance of the bride, Elizabeth had used the picture of Virginia as the head. The picture, by the way, was the one used in The Constitution when the bride-elect announced her engagement several weeks ago.

• • • A LIFE of good luck is assured for Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell McElroy, if a traditionally lucky symbol is any indication. The bride is the former Eleanor Virginia Weldon, and when she married Saturday at the Briarcliff road residence of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pendergrast, she wore an old silver sixpence in the heel of her slipper.

In wearing the coin, she followed the old adage of wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, and a silver sixpence in her shoe!" The sixpence has been in the bride's family for many years and belongs to her aunt, Miss Alma Hodnutt. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Burrell Weldon.

• • • GOOD NEWS circulated among the college set yesterday that "Pat" Stodghill had changed her plans for school during the coming year and would attend the nearby University of Georgia. Pat, you know, has been attending Denison University in Granville, Ohio, but during the last few weeks the lure of college near home, with the possibility of weekends here, was too much for this popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stodghill, and she has signed up for Georgia. And, by the way, until the call to classrooms sounds, Pat and her parents will enjoy a trip to New York and New Jersey and plan to leave next week.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16-inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 5 points lower at 9.56 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 10.03 cents; middling 7/8-inch average 9.37 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Foreign selling, plus quickened hedging pressure, depressed cotton futures 3 to 7 points today. Final quotations were low for the session despite flurries of demand from trade and mill accounts.

The market got off to a lower start on an overnight accumulation of hedging sales. Demand revived for a while, but offerings of about 5,000 bales, believed to be for Bombay account, sent the list downward again.

Hedge sales increased later in the day, which emphasized the recession. Hedging has been unusually light recently because of unfavorable conditions which have held up marketing of the new crop.

Exports Monday nil; season so far, 41,057; port receipts, 15,619; port stocks, 2,546,923.

EASINESS IN COTTON CREDITED TO HEDGING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—(AP) Easiness in cotton futures here today was attributed to hedge selling and good weather in the belt. Closing prices were steady, 3 to 5 points net lower.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Uneasiness over the Balkan situation, where border clashes between the Russians and Rumanians were reported, stirred the dull grain markets in the final hour today and wheat prices extended their gains to as much as 1 1-2 cents over yesterday's close. Final prices were at the day's best levels.

Soy beans shot up as much as 4 1-2 cents a bushel, to a new season high at 75 1-2 for May. This reflected strength in the cash market and short covering which disclosed limited offerings.

Short covering operations and buying by local and milling interests in the face of light offerings and lack of any important hedging pressure against the movement of wheat to terminals also contributed to the upturn in wheat.

Wheat futures closed 1 1-8 to 1 1-2 cents higher than yesterday. December contract was the strongest, reaching 74 1-4 near the close. Minneapolis wheat closed 1 1-4 to 1 3-8 higher and Kansas City 1 1-2 to 2 1-8 up.

Stock Brokers Favor Longer Trading Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—With the volume of trading in the New York Stock Exchange at the lowest since 1916 in several trading sessions lately, agitation among members for a longer trading session has been renewed.

A proposal to extend the closing hour to 4 p. m., New York time, from the present 3 p. m., it was learned in brokerage circles, has received considerable support. The Association of stock exchange firms was said to be supporting the move, and to have been in touch with exchange officials.

Proponents of the plan urge it as a method of increasing trading volume, arguing it would give traders a longer period in each day to execute orders. Some with offices on the Pacific coast were said to favor the move, because the present closing hour in New York is only noon there.

Crude Oil Production Shows Decline in Week

TULSA, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Daily average crude oil production in the United States dropped 16,191 barrels to a total of 3,514,452 for the week ended August 24, slackening in most states, but increasing in Texas, Oklahoma and the Rocky Mountain region, the Oil & Gas Journal said today.

Texas hiked output 7,894 barrels a day to 1,200,332, although east Texas declined 48 (cq.) to 374,848. Oklahoma's flow swelled 4,825 to 407,300; the Rocky Mountain states' 5,026 to 100,010, and the eastern states' 200 to 103,600.

California dropped 18,000 to 617,250; Illinois 11,400 to 381,300; Kansas 5,200 to 181,800; Louisiana 4,600 to 273,810, and Michigan 532 to 53,714.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The war again took the principal blame today for another slipshod stock market.

While a few rails, coppers and specialties managed to come out a trifle on top, there was a wide assortment of small minus signs at the close. Many issues were unchanged or failed to open.

Volume picked up a bit from yesterday's proceedings which were the second slowest for a full day in 84 years. The turnover of 224,100 shares compared with 161,740 Monday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished at 42.3, the same as the day before.

Market Is Shaky.

The list was shaky from the start and never developed a definite trend. A little selective buying came in after midday and steadied some groups, but others were virtually ignored.

Brokers said their customers still inclined to keep decks clear pending a shift in foreign battle tides. Helping confuse sentiment were persistent Nazi air bombings of England and retaliatory British raids on Berlin and other Axis territory. Until some clue to the outcome is received, it was suggested, speculative contingents would continue to put discretion before valor.

Action of the house Ways and Means committee in agreeing on excess profits provisions of the proposed new tax law was viewed as encouraging, but potential stock buyers were none too sure the revenue measures would not suffer further congressional delay with a possible disturbing effect on corporations that are to pay a sizable part of the defense expenses.

Some Shares Rally.

On the other hand, a sustaining influence was seen in the business outlook and earnings and dividends inspired fresh support for several stocks that have been in the doldrums recently.

Reaffirmation of fourth-quarter steel prices apparently brought scant response from the hard metal shares. A substantial year-to-year increase in the first seven months' automobile registrations did not stir the motors. Expanding copper and department store sales propped stocks in these categories. Mounting traffic and net income buoyed rails.

On the offside were Bethlehem, Chrysler, United Aircraft, International Harvester, American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse and United States Rubber.

Improved in the curb were American Cyanamid "B," Creole Petroleum and Humble Oil. A shade lower were Gulf Oil, Niagara Hudson Power and Pennroad.

While most domestic corporate issues drifted in small trading, finishing with minor gains and losses, the offerings of some foreign loans found bids only at wide changes.

With the continuation of heavy air attacks on England, British emp'-e issues mostly went lower. Brisbane 5s, on a single transaction, broke 6 to 49, and Australia 4½s of 1956 yielded a point.

Belgium 6½s of 1949 broke nearly 7 50 1-8. Off 2 or more were Berlin City 6½s, Leipzig 7s and Helsingfors 6½s. Denmark 6s of 1942, on the other hand, jumped 4¾ to 39⅞.

Among domestic groups, where traders continued to mark time awaiting developments in the battle of England, and at home, fractional losses were recorded in Armour of Delaware 4s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Walworth 4s and Southern Pacific 4½s. Up slightly were Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977 F, City of New York 3s and Erie 5s.

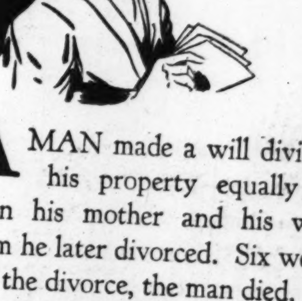
How a MOTHER suffered through her son's neglect



A MAN made a will dividing his property equally between his mother and his wife, whom he later divorced. Six weeks after the divorce, the man died. He had not made a new will.

Since this man had given his wife certain property in their settlement of the divorce, he probably thought that the balance of his estate would go to his mother. Or he may simply have delayed too long, as many do, in making a new will to meet changed conditions. Whatever his reason, his failure to have his attorney draw a new will deprived his mother of part of the estate.

Ask your attorney to explain the conditions that may have changed since you made your will. You may find that you should immediately make a new will, to assure that your estate will be distributed as you desire.

Crackers Blast Pelicans, 7 to 1, as Miller Hurls Well in Pinches

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

The Point Seems like most of us have missed the point in the Southern league baseball race. We have had an idea that it's Knoxvile's fault the Nashville Vols are still out in front.

Knoxville is partly to blame for not having won more than two out of 22 games, but it's really due to circumstances beyond control that the Vols and Crackers are not on even terms today.

When the Crackers were having all that early-season hard luck, with Hafey, Burge, Ryan and first one and another falling out, the Vols were at full strength.

They defeated the Crackers SEVEN straight.

It has been different in the last 14 games. The Crackers won nine and lost five.

But for the season, the Vols won 12 and the Crackers nine.

That bad start of early season, when the Crackers were crippled and the Vols were inviolable, tells the story of the race to date.

The Crackers of today are better than the league leaders, but they may never prove it. They may never take over first place.

Still, it serves as another point in the contention that the Crackers for two years have had pennant-winning ball clubs.

They failed to win last year by a crushing reverse at New Orleans on the final trip of the year. The hopelessly last-place Pelicans knocked the Crackers off for three straight.

Child Marriage I take it that Riley Elder hasn't had much peace over at the city hall since it was learned that Daniel I. Troy, two, received a dun for city taxes.

Innocent people sometimes suffer. The branch of city government over which Mr. Elder presides—it is tantamount to the umpires of baseball, they can do no right—made an honest mistake.

It seems that the city directory for 1940 has come through with the most astounding child marriage in history.

If you think there have been any records in Tennessee, just lend me your bifocals . . .

There has been a change in the sports editorship of our paper since the last directory. Daniel I. Troy is now sports editor. And he is married, the little rascal. Life's little problems.

The whole thing was getting somewhat complex when an offer of a free lot followed a dun for city taxes. And then Riley Elder himself cleared it up.

He pointed out that the city directory was at fault.

About W. Marshall Since the following letter from Miss Johnnie Cook, of East Point, was received, Willard Marshall has started hitting. The poem written by Virginia Sykes is okay, however. Letter and poem are presented herewith—

"Dear Mr. Troy:

"We noticed that your column has been short of poems lately, so we decided to send one to you. This poem was written by Virginia Sykes, 1989 Brown Mill road, Lakewood Heights. It refers to the first or second series that Nashville played here. By the way, we still have hopes of Atlanta winning the pennant. "MISS JOHNNIE COOK."

"A MEMORY TO MARSHALL'S HITTING," OR
"MARSHALL AT THE BAT."

"The outlook wasn't so hot for the Crackers that day,
The score stood four to four with but one inning to play,
And then came the Crackers' turn to swing,
Then the loud, noisy insults died down
For Willard Marshall, the hero of late,
Was slowly advancing to the plate.
The handsome first base coach, Larry Miller,
Shouted, 'Junior, swing that piece of willow!'
The leading home-run hitter, Rocco,
Over the third tier of signs, it flew
Though those good old days are gone when Marshall used to hit,
Somehow they linger in our memory—
We just can't forget.
And we keep hoping that he will start hitting
And help us in the race,

Marshall started hitting in Nashville the day Miss Sykes wrote her poem, according to the postmark on the letter.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Challedon won the Whitney Stakes today, as everyone had expected, but he encountered difficulties that no one had expected.

William L. Brann's Handicap King had to run the fastest mile and a quarter in the history of the event to beat out William Woodward's Isolater in a photo finish. His time was 2:03 1-5, three-fifths of a second faster than War Admiral ran in last year's renewal of the 13-year-old stake. The track record is 2:01 4-5, shared by Man o' War and Sir Barton.

Mrs. Tumlin Wins Low Gross Prize

Mrs. W. D. Tumlin won low gross honors yesterday in a one-day tournament sponsored by the A. W. G. A. at the Bobby Jones course. Her score in Class A was 91. Mrs. Claude Swinney won low net with 80.

In Class B Mrs. M. K. Bailey captured low gross with 105 and Mrs. C. C. Sloan took low net honors with 91. Mrs. Carl A. King topped the Class C division with a low gross of 107 and low net went to Mrs. T. R. Staton with 78.

COME BACK.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—(AP) Danny Litwhiler, one of the leading hitters in the Eastern League, has been recalled by the Phillies from Wilkes-Barre, it was announced today.

Hartnett To Stay

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, announced today that Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett will be retained as manager of the team.

Wrigley said he was convinced Hartnett had done a good job this season—much better than he did in 1939. Hartnett, now serving his 19th season with the club, took over the managership in 1938, replacing Charlie Grimm.

DUGOUT DIRECTOR—Just as the final drive for the Southern association pennant got under way, the usual Cracker luck overtook skipper Paul Richards, who injured his shoulder in a collision at the plate in Nashville. Paul, who will be out the rest of the season, directs the team from the dugout. At the right are a pair of sluggers who have been rattling the fences with base knocks to keep the Crackers in the thick of the pennant fight. Lester Burge, left, socked two homers in Knoxville Sunday, and Willard (Junior) Marshall, right, has come out of his batting slump with a burst of much needed power. The Crackers are only 3 1-2 games back of the Vols.

Prep Gridders End Hard Work Minus Injuries

Rupp, Lampe, Drill Cage Teams for Thursday Night Games.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Most of the rough work for Georgia's prep All-Stars is over and Coaches Frank Thomas of the North, and Wally Butts, of the South, will begin tapering off today for Friday night's game on Grant field.

There was nothing easy about yesterday's workouts and when darkness fell there wasn't much any of the boys wanted to do except eat and go to bed.

The roughest workout of the entire coaching clinic was held by the Southern squad. Butts and Ears Whitworth scrimmaged their team for nearly an hour, and it was only after the sun retired that a halt was called.

Despite hard knocking sessions, there were no injuries reported in either grid camp. In fact, the only two wounds have emerged from the Southern basketball camp.

SPRAINED ANKLE.

Jim Homer slightly sprained an ankle Monday and yesterday Ross Nix, of Morgan, Ga., suffered a bruised leg and may be lost for Thursday night's cage game.

Coaches Elmer Lampe, of the Southern basketballers, and Adolph Rupp, of the North, are working hard getting their teams in readiness for the game and a hot battle is expected. It will be interesting to see how Rupp will cope with the overwhelming height of the Southerners—especially six-foot-eight Joe Murrow of Lanier; six-foot-six Jim Homer, of Columbus, and six-foot-three Jim Davis, of Albany.

Ryals Lee, Gus Letchas and Mutt Manning were the stars of yesterday's Southern football scrimmage. Lee and Letchas brought words of praise from Butts with their hard running. Manning was a workhorse backing up the line from his center position on defense.

HE LIKES 'EM.

Students at the Georgia Coaching Clinic yesterday heard Butts discuss blocking and tackling, Lampe lecture and demonstrate on basketball, George Griffin on track and Claude Bond and Fitz Lutz on training.

This 'n' That: Buck Campbell and John Showalter, Southern League umpires, were out at Tech yesterday getting their feet worked on by their ex-colleague, Claude Bond, who gave up umpiring to accept the position as Tech trainer. . . . Ed Sims, who played a year on the Tech Bee team and last year was first string center for the Navy, was around and asked Coach Alexander if it would be alright for him to work out next week with the Jackets. . . . It was. . . . Incidentally, Coach Alex will leave today for the New York World's Fair, where he will lecture at a coaching school Friday. . . . He will miss the All-Star game. . . . Tommy Witt, Ken Keuper and Lamar Davis, of the Georgia varsity, are in town working out at Tech and helping Butts with demonstrations during the coaching clinic. . . . Among the nicknames Whitworth and Butts call their players are . . . "Flyswatter" . . . "O' Country Boy" . . . "Corn Cob" . . . and "Valdosta."

What I Would Do as Governor To Aid Wildlife in Georgia

Talmadge Points to Past Performance, Claiming 'More Constructive Work Than Has Been Done Before or Since.'

Editor's Note: In keeping with its Sunday presentation of wildlife news and features on the south's only full outdoor page, The Constitution invited each gubernatorial candidate to write "What I Would Do as Governor to Aid Wildlife in Georgia." The first is presented herewith. The others will follow.

By EUGENE TALMADGE.

In determining whether a candidate for public office is sincerely interested in a subject, the best test is: "What did he do for the same folks when he had the chance before?"

I think the sportsmen, the landowners and other Georgians interested in the conservation of our game and fish and other natural resources will agree that when Talmadge was governor for two terms, his administration did more constructive work under a wild-life program than has been done before or since.

When I became governor I thought that all of Georgia was as fortunate as my own section around McRae and my old home at Forsyth in having an abundance of game and fish. But as I got around over the state I discovered that was wrong. So we went to work with Zack D. Cravey as game and fish commissioner and built up one of the most efficient (and economical) departments in the state government for game and fish work.

CLUBS FORMED.

Mr. Cravey and his staff worked directly with the people interested in conservation and formed more than 60 conservation and sportsman's clubs, each with membeiships ranging from 50 to 400, all over the state. The game and fish department inaugurated an educational plan of interesting our people in the subject and to appeal to Georgians to protect our game and fish from pot-hunters and game hogs. In this plan they took movies of game management work and wildlife and showed them to the 4-H clubs and in the schools of the state.

Mr. Cravey's department signed the first co-operative agreement in the United States with the Federal Bureau of Biological Survey and the United States Forest Service, and under this agreement there was launched a worthwhile game management and propagation project on federal government property in Northeast Georgia.

Only one fish hatchery, the coldwater or trout hatchery at Summerville, had been partially completed when I took office. We built the fish hatcheries at Magnolia Springs, Millen; at Ways Station, and at Tuft Springs, Macon. In addition we tripled the capacity of the Summerville trout hatchery and located two others later built by the United States Forest Service in North Georgia.

We built the only quail hatchery in the south, and released thousands of birds to build up the depleted bird population all over the state.

"SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES"

These are things that speak for themselves, and I believe they indicate a healthy interest on my part in the wildlife resources of Georgia.

As Governor of Georgia for another term it will be my purpose to give renewed emphasis to conservation of our game and fish. We will rebuild anew without any additional cost, and make our forests and streams teem with animal, fowl and fish. And we will pay attention to Georgia's other natural resources: the forests and the minerals. But most of all, we will pay attention to our first and foremost natural resource: our people. We will help our people to have the opportunity to get out in the wilds and relax, and to do this it means a concerted program not only in the wildlife division but in the parks and forest divisions, all working to the same end of conservation of our people and our forest populations.

Georgia Tackle Named Mentor At West Point

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 27.—Appointment of Charlie Williams, regular tackle of last year's Georgia eleven as head coach of football and basketball at West Point High school, was announced here tonight.

Williams, a native of Athens, will report to the West Point school Thursday and begin football practice Monday. He will teach physics and chemistry in addition to his coaching duties.

The husky Charlie was captain of Athens High school's football team in 1934, later entering Georgia Military College, where he played for two years before coming to Georgia.

LANETT WINS.

LANETT, Ala., Aug. 27.—Lanett slugged out its third straight win over Fairfax in the playoff series by the score of 8-5. The standing is now three games to one. Danna gave up only nine hits. The entire Lanett team hit well.

Golf Suffering In British Isles, Cotton Writes

Henry To Join Air Force as Pilot; Warfare Wrecks Courses.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Local rules take care of balls which roll into trenches dug to stop easy plane landings, but golf is having a hard time of it in besieged England, according to Henry Cotton, generally regarded as one of the game's great players.

Writing to Tom Walsh, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, that "we are going to see this job through now," Cotton said he was joining the Royal Air Force as a pilot within 10 days and disclosed that a serious shortage of water had hurt most of the country's courses.

"Golf is just alive," Cotton writes. "Our courses are covered with posts, poles, trenches, stone boulders, old rollers; in fact, anything to stop aeroplanes having an easy landing. This does not interfere much with play and local rules cover any incidents. We have had a dry summer, with no staff and no money and with the idea of saving our water reserves for fire emergencies. No watering has been done—with the greens very burnt up, some almost seriously—and as I write we are in the middle of another hot spell."

Reporting he had raised 24,000 pounds (approximately $96,000) in Red Cross exhibition matches, Cotton said: "I'm glad to read the P. G. A. of America is making a Red Cross effort."

Atlanta Gains Half Game on Idle Vol Club

Birmingham Here Tonight for Double-Header at 7:45.

By JOHN MARTIN.

The Pels made their last appearance of the season at Ponce de Leon park last night, but if it was left to the Crackers they'd have been a standing invitation to stay on through till the curtain drops.

All the season the Pels have been playing cousin to the Crackers and last night was no exception. They offered Paul Richards' boys Trader Horn and the Crackers took Horn in stride, banging out a 7-1 victory for their eighth straight and a half-game gain on the idle Vols. Nashville now leads by 3 1-2 games.

Larry Miller had his fork ball sliding and should have made his 14th win a shutout, but an error in the last inning cost the right-hander a run that could have died at first.

In 20 meetings with the Pels this year the Crackers have won 14. Nine of these were at Poncey. No. 9 came as easy as a yawn.

While Miller scattered six hits and kept the Pels away from third base until the ninth, the Crackers found that the only thing Trader Horn had that resembled the wilds of the jungle was a high one out of reach. But too often Horn got down the middle.

17TH FOR ANDERSON.

Miller found his touch in the second inning when he struck out Gillenwater, Browne and Brewer in order. Emil Mailho provided the fielding gem for the crowd of 2,500. He cut off a run in the eighth when he stabbed Rogers' line drive and his quick throw to second caught Bremer after Scalzi's single to right.

The Barons came to town tonight for a double-header beginning at 7:45 o'clock. Lefty Burgess and Herman Besse will pitch for the home side, with Burgess getting the call in the opener.

Yates Fails as Barnes, Perry, Dahldender, Gaillard Qualify

Charlie Needs Eight Strokes On Fifth Hole

Tommy Leads Pack in National Amateur Tests Here With 143.

By AL SHARP.

Tommy Barnes set the pace in qualifying for the National Amateur Golf tournament here yesterday with a 71-72—143. Qualifying in the other three places awarded this section were Gene Dahlbender, 16-year-old star, with 73-72—145, and Gene Gaillard and Sam Perry, with identical scores of 69-77—146.

While the three Atlantans and Perry, the two-time Southern Amateur champion from Birmingham, were gailning positions, Charlie Yates, former British Amateur champion, failed to make the grade for the first time in nine years.

Charlie ruined his chances in the morning, taking an 8 and a 5 to drop five strokes to par on successive holes. After those disastrous trips to the rough and the lake, Yates came in with a 42 on the first nine. From there on he played nice golf, finishing the morning round with a 35 for a 77 and scoring a 72 in the afternoon for a 36-hole total of 149.

FIRST ALTERNATE.

Charlie is the first alternate in fifth place, and he will have a chance to compete in the tournament at Winged Foot, Mamoroneck, N. Y., September 9-14, if any one of the four low scorers decides not to make the trip.

A check-up among the four who won places revealed that all are planning to compete in the national tonrnament.

Other scores in the field which was cut to eleven by the withdrawals of Dick Garlington and Charlie Dannals, of Atlanta, and Bill McWane, of Birmingham, were:

Weldon Doe, Montgomery, 76-78—154; Carling Dinkler Jr., Atlanta, 78-76—154; Arnold Blum, Macon, 80-79—159; Dewey Bowen, Atlanta, 77-81-158; Alan Yates, Atlanta, 76-82-158; J. Harvey Irwin, Atlanta, 80—no card.

MOST CONSISTENT.

In winning the medal, Barnes played the most consistent golf of the day, equaling the card of 36-35—71 in the morning round, and missing the card by only one shot on the first nine in the afternoon. Tommy had two birdies on each nine except the last one, where he played every hole in par. Barnes is a former City Open and Amateur titleholder.

Dahlbender, winner of the Southern Amateur medal and present Southern Prep and High School champion, put together the best score on nine holes, having a 3-under-par 33 on the front nine in the afternoon. He sank six-foot birdie putts at the first and fifth, and got down a 12-footer at No. 9.

FIVE UNDER PAR.

Gaillard was 5 under par through the 13th hole in the morning before a bogey and a double bogey caught up with him on the last five holes. He birdied four in a row starting at the ninth. Perry also had a 34, two under par, going out and came back with a 35 for his 69.

Worthy of note as a contrast was Yates' scoring on the fifth and sixth holes in the morning and afternoon. In the morning against a par of 5-3, Yates had an 8 and a five, five strokes over par for the two holes. In the afternoon he scored a 4 and a 2, two under par. The difference on the two holes was seven shots. That is a perfect example of what can happen in a medal competition.

Yate stook the eight at the par-5 fifth after being about hole-high to the left with his second shot. His delicate pitch hit the bank and slid down against it. He got on in five and three-putted. His tee shot at the short sixth hit the lake and brought a 5.

Crouse Still Catching

Started With Ted Lyons

By JACK TROY.

Bucky Crouse is still playing baseball and hitting around .440. He catches for a fast semipro team in Muncie, Ind.

Bucky dropped in with Nolen Richardson, a former teammate at Baltimore, yesterday. Bucky came down here to pick up a pitcher —Charley Bauers, who worked part of this season for Birmingham.

Maybe you don't know Bucky Crouse from a ruffed grouse. In such a case, he is the old White Sox catcher.

Started out in 1923 with Ted Lyons, Bucky did. Caught him in all his games up to 1930. Lyons pitched a three-hitter against the Yankees the other day. day.

"There," said Bucky Crouse, "is the smartest guy that ever pulled on a baseball glove. I mean it. Teddy is just a year younger than I am. And I'll be 44 before long."

Crouse hasn't counted the Yankees out of the American League as yet, but he is inclined to like the chances of Detroit.

"Detroit has the pitching and the punch, and I don't see anything wrong with their defense."

Crouse thinks the Yankees are doing better now they have got around to pitching the youngsters more. He figures what has happened to the champs is just one of those things.

Crouse and Richardson had a great session before Bucky piled his pitching prospect into a car and headed back for Muncie.

STATE TOURNAMENT.

Winder vs. College Park and Atlanta Police vs. Rome is the softball dish to be served fans at Henry Grady field tonight in the semifinals of the state softball tournament. Three of the above teams—Winder, College Park and Rome—came from behind to defeat their opponents in the last inning, and in two cases, overtime innings.

Winder overcame a five-run lead Gainesville had piled up on them in the second inning and won, 7 to 5. College Park scored 3 runs in the seventh inning to forge ahead of Scripto, 3 to 2, but the Atlanta city champions also scored in the last half of the seventh to run it into an extra inning. Here College Park pushed across a run on a hit and a couple of passed balls.

The defending champions, Atlanta Police, had easy sailing against LaGrange. Sambo Elliott, ace pitcher for the coppers, had the LaGrange boys eating out of his hand and he allowed them only one hit. The score was 7 to 0.

Rome had a big inning in the eighth and scored 3 runs to beat back a stubborn challenge by Calhoun, 5 to 2. Elders will be on the mound for Rome tonight against the Police. Homer Carter will be the choice of Captain Ellis for mound duty for the police team.

The schedule:

Winder vs. College Park, 8 p. m., Grady Field.

Police vs. Rome, 9:15 p. m., Grady Field.

Metz Annexes Medal With 140 In PGA Meet

By HENRY SUPER.

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 27.—(UP) Handsome Dick Metz, of Oak Park, Ill., waded through the muck and rain at the Hershey Country Club today to win the qualifying medal in the 23rd annual P. G. A. championship with an aggregate card of 140.

The curly-haired 31-year-old player scored a 71, two strokes under par, to give him a 36-hole aggregate of 140 — the highest medal-winning score since Fay Coleman came home with 143 in 1936.

Winning the medal—golfers call it the kiss of death — usually means a quick exit from the tournament once the match play rounds start. Only two men—Walter Hagen and Olin Dutra—ever have won both the medal and tournament. Most medalists have been bumped out as early as the first or second round.

Runner-up honors went to Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Winchester, Mass., who scored a 71 for a 141. Henry Picard, defending champion and pro at the Hershey club, burned up the course with a 69 that put him in the third spot at 142. Next, at 143, was Ben Hogan, leading money winner of the year, while big Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia, held down the 145 spot.

After that, they were strung on through 153, which was the score that sends 61 men into tomorrow's match play rounds. Seven other players tied at 154 and played off for the remaining three places.

The extra places went to Joe Turnesa, Rockville Center, N. Y.; Nelson Giddens, Jackon, Miss., and Henry Bontempo, Springfield, Mass., those who lost out were Harry Adams, Medinah, Ill.; John Cochran, Greenwood, Miss., Sam Schneider, Corpus Christi, Tex., and Cliff Bruneau, Woodbridge, Connecticut.

For once there were no major casualties in these qualifying rounds. The only "name" players who failed to make the grade were Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion; Jim Barnes, winner of the first P. G. A. title in 1916; Bobby Cruickshank and Sam Parks Jr., 1935 open champion.

Shute Forced Out With Appendectomy.

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Denny Shute, star professional golfer, was "doing as well as could be expected" tonight after an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Shute, who won the P. G. A. championship twice, was stricken late today after he had completed his second qualifying round in the current P. G. A. tournament. He scored rounds of 75-76 to qualify easily. Shute won the British open in 1933, beating Craig Wood in a playoff.

Whittier Trips Biscuit Outfit In Fast Battle

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Good pitching was still telling the story as the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation's second annual tourney went swinging into the semi-finals yesterday with National Biscuit and Dallas Hosiery Mills being eliminated, leaving only Whittier Mills, Oakland City and Clark Thread Mill, of Clarkdale, to battle it out for the crown and the right to represent Georgia in the National Baseball Federation's World Meet in Birmingham, September 7 through 15.

Stumpy Duck Smith threw a three-hitter at National Biscuit to win for Whittier, 6 to 0. Two of the blows were hard-hit doubles by Peck Norton and Lewis Quinn, but they did no damage. Meanwhile, Long John Adams was flipping six-hit ball at the Millers, but two errors in the first contributed to a three-run uprising by the winners.

Clarkdale turned the tables on Dallas, who downed them Sunday, 4 to 3, when they made the most of 10 hits and five Dallas errors to win going away, 11 to 2. McTyre, on the hill for the winners, spaced 10 hits well, fanned nine and had good fielding support from his mates. Paris also twirled a creditable game, but ragged support proved his undoing.

The luck of the draw was with Whittier, so they will rest today while Oakland City and Clarkdale vie in a 4 o'clock battle at the Fulton Bag diamond with Austin and Moon umpiring. Whittier and Oakland have won five and lost none so far in tourney play, and Clarkdale has a four won, one lost record. Should the latter lose today they will be eliminated. If Clarkdale cops they will draw with Oakland to decide which nine meets Whittier tomorrow.

Miller walked and made it to third on Mailho's single to right in the fifth. The Cracker pitcher scored on Marshall's hoist to Gillenwater and Mailho went to second.

The Crackers found Horn again in the sixth. Bates and Williams singled, Miller sacrificed and on Anderson's hopper to Ankeman Bates scored. A wild throw by Browne, attempting to catch Williams at third, let in another and made the count 5-0. Marshall lined a double to the signs and Anderson and Mailho crossed. This finished Horn and Lefty McLaughlin relieved.

Anderson muffed Rogers' bounder in the ninth and then threw wild at first. Burge fumbled Marshall's roller, but recovered iln time to catch the runner as Rogers went to third, the first man to reach this base off Miller. Rogers scored as Thompson beat out a high bounder to Anderson. Bates took Gillenwater's fly and Browne grounded to Glock.

Yankees Beat White Sox, 5-4, In 10th Stanza

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The New York Yankees continued their belated drive toward the top in the American League today by turning back the Chicago White Sox in 10 innings, 5 to 4. The victory advanced the champions to 5 1-2 games of the idle Cleveland Indians and 2 1-2 games of the likewise idle Detroit Tigers.

Babe Dahlgren was the hero of the 10th-inning uprising after Joe DiMaggio, in the role of pinch hitter, had struck out. Red Rolfe doubled to start the frame, and was sacrificed to third by Tommy Henrich. Charley Keller and George Selkirk were intentionally passed by Johnny Rigney to fill the bases.

Rigney then was relieved by Edgar Smith, who promptly fanned DiMaggio, batting for Bill Dickey. Dahlgren then dropped a single into short right to score Rolfe with the winning run. Rigney was charged with the defeat and Johnny Murphy, who relieved Spud Chandler on the mound for the Yanks after Chandler had been lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, got credit for his fifth victory.

CHICKS TRIUMPH.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 27.—(AP)—After the Knoxville Smokies got past the first inning tonight, they did pretty well in their 17-to-1 loss to Memphis—but that opening frame was a stinger!

Fourteen Chicks went to bat before the first out; they lacked but two men from batting around twice. Eight runs were combined to produce 12 runs—and veteran sports writers scratched their heads in an effort to remember a bigger score for a first inning.

Sharp SHOOTIN'

by AL SHARP

THEN THE PHOTOGRAPHER WANTED QUIET.

All was not well on the National Amateur qualifying front yesterday at noon. Charlie Yates, former British Amateur champion, was having trouble. He had finished the morning round with a 77, because he dropped six strokes to par on three holes in a row.

Charlie jumped an 8 in the rough around the fifth green, and a shot into the lake on the next hole, located on an island, had brought a 2-over-par-5. On the seventh, Charlie three-putted for a bogey 5 and par had gained six strokes in three holes. The rest of the way Charlie was even with the card, but those three holes do count, so he had a tough afternoon facing him.

On the other hand, Gene Gaillard, known in some circles as Goose, had gone wild through 12 holes, closing with a streak of four birdies which put him five under par at that point. The Goose's score starting at No. 9 read 4-3-2-3, which happens to be four birdies in a row.

SHARP.

The Goose lost three strokes to par en route to lunch, but his 69, two under regulation figures, was nice indeed, having put him in a tie with Sam Perry, the little man from Birmingham who has held the Southern amateur title two times.

I was talking to Sir Thomas Barnes about the Goose and his string of birdies at the noon recess during which the golfers take on small rations in contemplation of the hot sun during the afternoon play while fans and writers enjoy real meals.

I wondered if Tommy had ever run into such a string of birdies on those particular holes. He didn't remember such an experience, although we agreed it probably had happened before. The ninth is not a particular hard birdie hole, but the tenth and eleventh will give the best of them pause.

The tenth hole on this course—East Lake No. 1, it is—calls for accuracy with a long iron, usually from a spot not in sight of the green. The 11th is a par 3, but it takes a nice wallop with one of the middle irons to get there, less rather close enough for a birdie.

Well, that's the way things were when 11 qualifiers, minus Dick Garlington and Charlie Dannals, of Atlanta, and Bill McWane, of Birmingham, who had withdrawn, finished the first 18 holes.

And you can't say much more at the time this is being written without getting into the prediction column. So we'll let it go for the time being.

There is a little incident that will bear telling, though. It concerns Bill Mason, The Constitution photographer. Bill came out to make some pictures of the golfers. We were trying to round up Sam Perry, Charlie Yates and Carling Dinkler Jr. before they teed off.

In the course of events, Bill got his 245 pounds—anyhow, he looks that big—behind Dinkler, who was getting ready to drive on the first hole. Bill was getting set to make a picture and Carling was intent on driving. The result was a lot of motioning and whispering to get Bill out of the way. It was accomplished.

A few minutes later, we went out to the fourth green to catch another threesome. Bill took the picture, and as we started back to the clubhouse, he remarked:

It is usually the other way around—emphatically so.

Al Refuses To Let Marilyn See Clara; Marilyn Gets First Memo From Cook

By JANE DIXON.

SYNOPSIS.

That Clara Marsh, very conscious of her blond good looks and good figure, has been voted the winner of a six-county beauty contest is announced in Millville's Bijou Theater by Al Martino, sleek-haired representative of the Metropole Amusement Corporation of New York. The prize is a 10-day trip to New York. That evening Clara's younger sister Marilyn is notified she won the $1,000 prize for the best last line in the Clarco Super Soap Flakes Jingle Jubilee contest and Clara accuses her of trying to detract from her beauty contest honors. Marilyn celebrates by lunching the next day at the Silver Grill with Sally Meacham, with whom she works in the Bon Ton Store, and Martino, there with Clara, asks who the two pretty girls are. Marilyn, trying to patch up a truce with Clara later, tells her how nice it is that her mother can see New York with her, but Clara says she is taking the $100 allowed for the chaperon's expenses for herself. Al is plainly infatuated with Marilyn and calls at the run-down Marsh house which she is planning to fix up. Finally, she tells him he will make trouble for her if he doesn't stop his attentions. Back in New York, Al tells Palmer Watson, Metropole president, he is having trouble keeping Clara in hand as she drinks too much, and Mrs. Marsh gets a letter from her asking for money. While Al is on his way to the Blue Parrot night club to try to locate Clara, she is drinking champagne there with Herman Hess, who says the proprietor will put her in the floor show. Al meets Marilyn in New York. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XIII.

"Thank you. That will be all, Mr. Walker."

The young man backed away. Apparently he was glad to be doing so.

"Miss Marsh," the woman fixed Marilyn with those dissecting eyes, "I understand you are coming to work in the promotion department."

"Yes, Miss Cook. Mr. Watson talked with me about coming." Unconsciously, Marilyn stood at attention too.

"I understand that you have had no previous experience in the work."

"No. I—I—"

"You have worked, though. You've been a wage-earner?"

"Oh, yes," brightly. "I was in the book department of the Bon Ton—that's a department store in Millville. Millville is my home."

"Good. Then you understand a position is a trust placed in you by the company which employs you. I prefer not to inquire into your educational equipment. It might prejudice me, and I want to be free to direct without prejudice. Personally, I prefer to deal with college men and women, but the nature of our product, Clarco, is such that intellectual appeal is not in order. We reach for mass, not class interest. Our keynote is simplicity. Highly trained minds find difficulty in being simple."

Marilyn thought, "Is she trying to tell me I'm a mental pigmy or is she trying to put me at my ease? I wish I knew."

Miss Cook rose. She was tall, erect, almost martial.

"And now, Miss Marsh," she said, "if you'll come with me I'll take you to your desk. You will find it fully equipped. I shall designate Miss Garvan, who occupies the desk alongside yours, to acquaint you with the routine."

Marilyn followed Miss Cook along the aisle between the desks. She felt as though she were marching. She felt eyes sliding sideways to catch sly glances of the little procession, but heads were bent over their work. The rustle of paper and the hollow hum of noiseless typewriters never ceased.

Marilyn's desk was halfway down the long room, next to the window. She was grateful it was so. It gave her an inland feeling, a mite of remoteness. Kathleen Garvan, the girl at the next desk, a fiery redhead with Irish eyes and a pert nose, was friendly, anxious to help.

"Don't mind the office feeling like a factory," she said in a low voice, keeping up a pretense of instructing her neighbor. "You get used to it quickly. I was scared stiff my first day here. Now I rather like it. Concentration speeds up your work. Take this memo."

"It calls for six six-word slogans. You write six sentences of six words each telling the world about Clarco. I worked on it all yesterday afternoon. Must have written 1,000 of them. Not one clicked. You can practice on my memo until you get one of your own. They usually come first thing in the morning and two or three times during the day.

"When you're not working on memo orders you fill in with copying, typing letters and various office details assigned to you."

"I'm afraid I'm not very fast at typing," Marilyn said, tuning her voice to the low note set by Kathleen Garvan. "I'm terribly out of practice."

"You're not required to be fast in the beginning," reassuringly. "After all, we're employed as copywriters, not as stenographers. But you're expected to pick up speed. One thing you must be, though, is accurate. Miss Cook can scent a mistake almost before you put it on paper, and she loathes erasures. You have to be neat about everything you do, and you have to follow the prescribed forms or you'll be in trouble. Miss Cook should have been a general in the army. She's God's gift to discipline."

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Marilyn closed her desk and followed the outgoing tide to the street. She had spent the entire day practicing on Kathleen Garvan's memo. No office boys with typed orders stopped at her desk.

Her neighbors went about their work in total disregard of her isolation. Miss Cook did not seem to know she was in the room. Toward the end of the day she felt tearful, but she set her teeth and tapped away at Clarco six-word slogans. She must have filled enough sheets to paper a good-sized mansion.

"How we going, Smartie-pie?" Al greeted Marilyn. "Did you burst out with an idea that should be written in letters of fire across the sky? Did you coin a phrase that will ring down the corridors of industrial history? You look kind of peeked. Don't tell me they put the pressure on you the first day."

Marilyn said, rebelliously, "I haven't done a thing all day except sit at my desk and practice doing another girl's job."

"Ah, the nerve test." Al pulled Marilyn's arm through his, all but skipped up the street. "Your boss is seeing whether or not you have good, steady nerves. He wants to see if you can take it."

"She isn't a he, she's a she."

"Well, I'll be darned. And you accuse me of scrambling my language. Oh well, I'm just a problem child in the school of English. But listen, Duchess, I have news for you. Your sister Clara is wearing a brand-fresh, shiny diamond bracelet."

"Wait a minute. Don't run out from under your harness. It's not a nice fat juicy diamond bracelet. Just a trinket. Compliments of that beau geste of the niteries, Mr. Herman Hess. I did a bit of investigating. Gossip has it that Hermie always starts that way, a trinket pace. Sort of whets the feminine appetite for baubles. It takes him quite a while to work himself into a real crown-jewel gallop."

Despite Marilyn's pleading, Al remained firm. No trailing Clara for two or three days, long enough to catch her off guard.

"But, Al," Marilyn persisted, "I can't sit by and hope to get Clara clear with wishful thinking. Anything could happen in two or three days."

"Right. And if it's going to happen neither you nor I nor all the king's horses can stop it. Duchess, I have a hunch and it's a daisy. Blondie isn't such a lame-brain when it comes to Blondie's own welfare. She's pretty darn well able to look out for herself. Too darned mean to do anything else. She's strictly on the taking end, not on the giving. Wouldn't it be a howl if she took Hermie for a row of emeralds, or a platinum-plated limousine?"

"I can't see anything funny in what you say. It's—shameful. Clara has only this man, this Herman Hess, only a few days. Accepting gifts from him—jewelry—"

"'Scuse. I've such a sensitive funny bone I see laughs in every racket Big Town spawns. If you didn't cultivate laughs in the show business you'd get melancholy and they'd brush out the padded cell for you. Take it easy on the Blondie busineess, Little One. Save your worries for the new job. Make it the most important thing in your life right now. Be a trooper. You know—come what may, the job must go on."

Marilyn's second morning in the Clarco offices. The hands of the clock said ten minutes until nine. Already half the occupants of the promotion department were at their desks. Marilyn settled herself at her typewriter. She had a queer tight feeling in her throat. Suppose she should sit there all day, fumbling with the keys, waiting, waiting.

Fifteen minutes later—it seemed fifteen centuries—an office boy stopped at her desk, deposited thereon a white slip of paper. "Memo for Miss Marsh." She could have embraced him.

The memo was identical with the one Kathleen Garvan had lent her. Slogans for Clarco. Six six-word sentences extolling the virtues of Clarco. A dozen or more of the sheets she had covered yesterday, busying herself so she would not be conspicuous by her idleness in the buzzing beehive, were in a drawer of her desk. She opened it, lifted the sheets and without glancing at what was written on them tore them in two, quietly, and dropped them into the wastebasket. She would count this her first day in the office and start it with a clean slate.

At 11 o'clock, from the numberless ones she had written, Marilyn culled six. She whispered them to herself. They sounded good. They were smooth, even lyrical. She managed to get Kathleen Garvan's ear without attracting the attention of workers at neighboring desks.

Kathleen Garvan smiled encouragingly.

"I'm sorry," she said, "I forgot to tell you—just press the buzzer on your desk. An office boy will come. Give him your copy. He will take it to the main desk—the big round one over in the corner where the three men and two women are sitting. They look it over first and if it gets past them it goes to Cookie—I mean Miss Cook. She's the last word, in this office. If she O. K.'s it, the next stop is what we call the 'cooler' because so much of our copy gets a cool reception there."

"How do you know what happens to your copy?"

DRAMA—Movie Star Jean Hersholt will let his beloved "Dr. Christian" play lawyer on behalf of a farmer friend in a courtroom drama called "Attorney at Law," written by M. M. Musselman and John L. Greene, to be broadcast over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Rosemary de Camp again will be heard as the doctor's secretary, Judy Price.

The good doctor learns that a sharp real estate agent who also fancies himself as a lawyer is taking action to foreclose immediately on Art Spencer's farm, for no reason that Art can see. Dr. Christian learns that the realtor plans to build suburban homes on the farm land at a considerable profit. Checking with a lawyer-patient, his recollection of an obscure proviso about homestead sites in the law, Dr. Christian appears in court at the foreclosure proceedings. The ancient clause permits a man whose mortgage is foreclosed to select one acre of his land and retain it for his homestead.

COMEDY—Bud Abbott will sell Lou Costello a house and turn him over to the loan sharks on their "Time to Smile" broadcast with Benay Venuta, Frank Bingman, Felix Mills and his orchestra over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

After one night in the cozy little haunted hotel that sheltered them upon arrival in Hollywood, Abbott decides that Costello needs the comforts of a home and will sell him a Hollywood "bungalow." The luxurious 75-room house with a staff of 94 servants, private tennis courts and swimming pool proves adequate for all of Costello's needs except one—the servants forgot to save him a bed.

MANHATTAN — Popular demand will bring Templeton Fox, known as New York's most beautiful radio actress, back to the new dramatic series, "Manhatton at Midnight," over WAGA at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

During the drama, built around a girl vocalist and a band leader who turns "Park Avenue" when he becomes a success, Miss Fox will have an opportunity to sing three songs assisted by Charlie Paul's music. Written by Richard Dana, Hendrik Booream will direct the production while Nelson Chase will announce.

Keep Home Finances on Even Keel

An unexpected expenditure—whether it be our new taxes for defense or an ordinary dentist's bill—and your visions of a new fall coat, other dreamed-of purchases go glimmering.

How different when you have the anchor of a budget plan. Monthly you set aside definite sums for all expenditures—for clothing, advancement, savings. Besides covering regular items, these sums care for what you might call normal emergencies; the Advancement Fund, for instance, includes dental care.

Very little figuring will show you what amount to apportion to each item. Look up last year's bills as a starting point, compare your spending with that of people on like incomes. Such comparison shows you, too, if your spending has been out of line on any item.

Yes, you easily keep home finances on an even keel when you budget. Our 40-page booklet, "How to Budget Your Income," shows how to divide your money, plan your spending to stretch each dollar. Gives ample budgets from real life, ruled pages for a year's records.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—During the entire day, you are likely to encounter peculiar people or peculiar situations. The influences culminating the entire day are such as to bring about hasty action which will be premature, and, therefore, favors only ideas that have been started previously.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS). Before 1:36 p. m. consider carefully before entering into new obligations. The day does not essentially favor dealings with women, matters of art and domestic affairs. Between 1:36 p. m. and 5:22 p. m. favors industrial matters and work pertaining to machinery. The remainder of the day steer away from romantic ideas and deeds.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Previous to 12:07 noon you can accomplish much with unexpected ease. The entire day favors general business, financial transactions, educational and literary matters. After 3:07 p. m. is especially favorable for dealings with heads of organizations.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Before 12:37 p. m. favors doing those things that you wish to dispose of quickly. Between 12:37 p. m. and 5:12 p. m. favors routine matters. After 5:12 p. m. practical matters and affairs that require tact and diplomacy can proceed with much gusto.

July 23rd and Aug. 22nd (LEO)—A good day to give more attention than usual to details, for it will be easy to overlook opportunities. Strict care should be taken of any promises given. Do not push your credit too far.

Aug. 23rd and Sept. 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 8:46 p. m. use extra caution in travel. The remainder of the day and until 11:46 p. m. favors finishing old matters, literary ideas, publishing, contacting superiors and correspondence. Be moderate in social matters.

Sept. 23rd and Oct. 22nd (LIBRA)—Before 9:10 a. m. avoid overexpansive ideas or commitments, especially along industrial lines. Between 9:10 a. m. and 5:27 p. m. favors work that requires muscular strength. After 5:27 p. m. do not expect excellent results from professional and artistic matters, and do not be in such a rush that you do not give yourself time to understand all matters in which you are interested.

Oct. 23rd and Nov. 21st (SCORPIO)—Previous to 7:46 a. m. suggests caution and moderation in all things. Between 7:46 a. m. and 9:49 p. m. favors contacting influential people, dealings with women, social and financial interests.

Nov. 22nd and Dec. 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The combined influences for the day tend toward quick flareups, peevishness and irritation. There will be a danger of overestimating finances and overdoing gayety. By being conversative your plans will be more successful.

Dec. 22nd and Jan. 19th (CAPRICORN)—The day favors social duties, domestic affairs, dealings with women and artistic interests. After 8 p. m. is an excellent time to expand your activities and benefits may be derived through the advice of others.

Jan. 20th and Feb. 18th (AQUARIUS) The entire day and evening favors promoting your personal interests vigorously, but shun extravagance and use care in the handling of funds and investments.

Feb. 19th and March 20th (PISCES). An excellent day for making personal contacts, seeking favors and interviewing others. The best period of the day is before 3:22 p. m.

Barbara Hutton Will Register As an Alien

Renounced Citizenship in 1935 To Marry Danish Count.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Preparing to register as an alien in her native land, Countess Barbara von Haugwitz-Reventlow today said: "The day on which I become an American citizen again will be the happiest day of my life."

The Countess, who renounced her American citizenship in 1935 to wed a Danish Count whom she has since divorced, said in a newspaper interview she would "comply with the letter and spirit" of the law requiring her to register. She was born Barbara Hutton, 10-cent store heiress.

"I love America. I am grateful to have the privilege of living in America, the last citadel of true freedom," she said. "I have taken steps toward the restoration of my citizenship."

Butts Into Politics; Thinks That 'Rule' Would Make Liars.

It is seldom this columnist butts into politics, which he knows less than nothing about.

But it does seem to him that an attempt to force our citizenry who vote in the approaching primary to pledge themselves to vote for Roosevelt and Wallace—or for the college of electors representing them—would make a lot of liars out of many of our best citizens.

There are numbers of Republicans in Georgia, avowed Republicans from away back. Their grandfathers were Republicans just as ours were Democrats.

There are also a number of born-and-raised Democrats who do not like the New Deal. Which is their privilege.

But, if the whole-hog-or-none interpretation is put upon the voters' pledge these people will be disfranchised in the primary.

It is called a Democratic primary but actually its a "white primary." The folk who started it many years ago were not so much disturbed over Republicans as they were over the Negro vote—greatly feared in those days.

Republican Citizens.

Up in north Georgia there are several counties which have been predominantly Republican for years. Their people are neighbors of the East Tennesseans, who are mostly members of the G. O. P.

Your columnist believes a Republican or an anti-New Dealer has a right to vote his choice for governor and solicitors and other state and county officers. He pays his taxes. And also he has a right to vote in the national election next November for whomsoever he darn pleases.

You may say: "Let him vote for state officers in the 'official' election which follows the primary." But that's to answer. If his favorite candidate doesn't win in the primary he won't be on the ticket. And besides, the "official" election is a mere matter of form to carry out the law. It means nothing in Georgia.

Nothing personal in this. If your columnist remembers to vote—in a large county in which his vote doesn't count for a hill of beans, he'll vote Democratic. He was born that way and he'd hate to think his ancestors were turning over in their graves. But he does feel he has a right to vote for Nix or Roberts or Talmadge and then vote for Roosevelt or Willkie—as a free-born citizen whose taxes are paid up.

Early Closing.

Announcement in Monticello News is to the effect that merchants realize that "keeping stores open each Saturday night to a very late hour is harmful to employes and everybody concerned," so the undersigned merchants agreed to shut up early—at o'clock Saturday nights.

It may be the folk in and around Monticello can't get around to buying their groceries and dry goods during daylight and a 10 o'clock closing up may seem impressive. But I should think the bosses and the salesmen and the saleswomen would have rather tired feet before the closing bell rings—even as early as 10 o'clock.

I can remember when a general store, such as we had in the country towns, opened up at 6 a. m. and stayed open until the last loafer had spit on the stove and bought a five-cent box of snuff for his wife and was ready to wend his way homeward. The tired clerk could shut up the front door at midnight, blow out the kerosene lamp and go to sleep in the back room.

Years ago city merchants discovered they could sell just as much goods between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. as they could in 24 hours.

The idea has pretty well spread to the smaller towns. I realize there is a certain group of workers who have no time to do shopping except after the whistle blows. But that doesn't mean a store must keep open until midnight.

Grammar Lesson.

One of those "common grammatical errors" columns—perhaps it should be "ungrammatical errors" or should it?—tells us not to say "she clerked in a store" because clerk is a noun and not a verb.

That's all right with me. Especially if the government will adopt a constitutional amendment against "contacted." Which irks me exceedingly. Maybe I should scratch that out—because I don't know just whether "irk" is verb, noun or just something that bothers you.

Short story, picked up at Savannah from a rural editor:

Local pastor voiced a Wednesday evening prayer that the Lord would keep him humble and poor. And then called upon Deacon Smith for a few words.

"Lord," amended the deacon. "I agree with our brother. You keep him humble and the congregation will attend to the rest."

Not that it will change history to any appreciable extent, but a fellow in Florida, recently convicted of habitual intoxication, is named Drinkwater.

Just a casual remark by Editor Jack Hilton of the Banks County Journal:

"If boys knew how shabby they look with their shirt tails out and girls could realize that pants destroy all sex appeal, some changes might be made."

Again quoting Mr. Hilton, this time on a weather prognostication:

"We know only one sure sign about rain. It has not failed in ten thousand years and it will not fail this time. We saw a dog scratch fleas this morning and it will rain after he scratched. Don't know how long, but it will sure come."

Edward E. Bomar

Says Britain Expects To Gain Powerful Allies—Perhaps U. S.

The attitude or unruffled assurance with which beleaguered Britain proceeds with preparations for a long war must be somewhat disconcerting at times to her foes.

As bombs rain on London, the British have an official mission of experts in this country, working closely with our own War Department, quietly completing arrangements for the manufacture of some 4,000 medium tanks.

British orders in the United States for other munitions are approaching a two-billion-dollar total. Thousands of warplanes have been ordered in American aircraft plants; more than 200 were scheduled for completion this month.

Urgent Need.

The urgent need for planes in the defense of the British Isles and for counterraids on Germany and Italy is obvious, but what about fleets of 25-ton tanks, the first of which probably cannot be completed for a year?

Four thousand is a tremendous number of this particular weapon, presumably far more than would ever be required for the home defense of England itself in any type of conflict even hinted by Nazi-style blitzkrieg. As a gauge, it may be noted that the expanding American army has ordered thus far but 1,000 of the medium type—which, incidentally, is almost identical with the British design.

The projected acquisition of 4,000 of the 25-ton monsters connotes further the intention to build up a force of several times that many smaller and faster light tanks. The ratio in modern armies is five or more of these to one medium tank.

If Britain is arming for a future frontal invasion of the continent the plans are being made in the face of decidedly dismal prospects just now. She has a bare toehold in western Europe only at Gibraltar.

See Decline.

The explanation is suggested by Prime Minister Churchill and statements of his war cabinet. It is that they regard the aerial siege as only a temporary phase of the conflict, destined to be succeeded by a decline in Nazi fortunes—a decline of which Britain must prepare to take advantage in ways which cannot be clear at this time.

There is expectation in Britain that next year, in 1942 or 1943, Britain will gain powerful allies in some way; that perhaps conquered nations will turn on the Germans, the Balkans will blaze, or the United States will enter the war.

Any allies other than the United States would have to be largely armed by Britain, and there would thus be ample demand for tanks and all other weapons. In the meantime these are urgently needed in the land warfare on other empire fronts, if not in England itself.

In general terms, Mr. Churchill's address of last week was eloquent of British hopes.

"Many opportunities may lie open to amphibious power," he suggested. Germany, Italy and "all other countries that have fallen into the German power" are to be squeezed relentlessly by the blockade.

Road to Victory.

Above all, "The process of bombing the military industries of Germany . . . affords one, at least, of the surest, if not the shortest of all roads to victory."

"Even if the Nazi legions stood triumphant on the Black sea, or indeed upon the Caspian; even if Hitler was at the gates of India, it would profit him nothing if at the same time the entire economic and scientific apparatus of the German war power lay shattered and pulverized at home," he said.

Meanwhile, almost daily developments as well as the prime minister's statement to the house of commons provide reminders of the way British hopes are bound up with this country.

In Cairo, the Egyptians are told by Sir Miles Lampson, the British ambassador, that war supplies are flowing to Great Britain from "the mighty industrial organization in the United States, which is rapidly transforming itself into a huge arsenal."

"When the moment comes—and it is not so far away—we shall launch our great counteroffensive," the envoy promised.

Funeral Is Conducted For Drowning Victim

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

BUTLER, Ga., Aug. 27.—Rites were held yesterday for 15-year-old Julian Windham, of Thomaston, who was drowned Sunday while swimming at Taylor Mill.

The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Windham, was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Peterman, and had left their home with a group of small boys to attend Sunday school. En route, they decided to go swimming. He was drowned when he ventured into deep water. The body was recovered 15 minutes later.
